Practicality, Functionality Are Esthetics At Mason-Dixon

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — A fancy exterior on a piece of farm equipment holds little esthetic appeal for Bert Waybright, a stockholder and employee at Mason-Dixon Farms, Gettysburg.

He said that a piece of machinery that would look good on a calendar cover doesn't mean anything — what matters most is how well it works.

Therein lies beauty, according to the 34-year-old father of four.

Waybright has a love of the functional arts.

Perhaps the strongest pieces of evidence of this admiration of functionality is an atypical farm machine that can harvest 30 tons of corn silage in 15 minutes. It's Waybright's conception, and because of his position, contacts and motivation, it is also his reality.

"I like the way things function, the way they work, and the practicality. I really don't consider the way things (farm machinery, equipment and tools) look."

So while the rest of the world might raise their eyebrows in shock to see a 60-foot-long, half-track, tractor-trailer rig, outfitted with a six-row header, racing

Wayne Beshore In York Holstein Hall

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GLEN ROCK (York Co.) — E. Wayne Beshore is the newest addition to the York County Holstein Hall of Fame.

The long-term Holstein breeder and dairy industry activist was honored with Hall of Fame recognition during the club's annual meeting and dinner, held October 15 at St. Paul's (Hametown) Lutheran Church.

After service in World War II and a brief period of off-farm employment, Wayne Beshore joined his father Elmer in partnership. The first herd test, in 1949, was on ten cows, producing an average of 7,160 pounds of milk and 252 pounds of fat.

Produce "huckster" routes served by the Beshores in the Harrisburg area in those early years gave way on a more intense focus by Wayne on improved dairy breeding and management. By the time a new barn was built in 1963, herd average on 39 head was at 12,400 milk and 503 fat.

In 1981, Beshore was named a Pennsylvania Master Farmer for his outstanding management and farm accomplishments, including a herd average of 20,095 milk and 704 fat on 43 head. Seventeen cows had passed the

Although Mike and Betsy Harrold have lived in Lancaster County for only four years, Mike is no newcomer to the poultry industry. As an 8-year-old, he began hatching chicks in the basement of his home. His career has included chicks sales and business administration. Since his move to Lancaster, Harrold is a sales representative in nine states for Intervet. At the annual Lancaster County Poultry banquet, held October 27, Harrold will be installed as president of the county Poultry Association.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Joseph Michael Harrold will be installed as president of the Lancaster County Poultry Association during the organization's annual banquet on Tuesday night, October 27.

Mike, as he prefers to be called, is a newcomer to the Lancaster area, but he is no newcomer to the poultry industry.

"Once a poultry man, always a poultry man," is the way his wife, Betsy, describes Mike.

"At age eight, I had my first poultry job — hatching eggs in an incubator," said Mike, who grew up in Georgia.

Because Mike's dad, who was a university biology professor, had wanted to be a farmer, he dabbled in a peach farm and in poultry.

At first, he hatched eggs in the basement. The family had two little chicken houses with 500

Stallion Donated To Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Kenny Mills, an American Quarter Horse breeder from Fruitland, Maryland, has donated six-year-old stallion Lucky Zip for use in Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science horse breeding program. Lucky Zip will be entered in the American Quarter Horse Association Incentive Fund Program and will be available to outside mares during the 1993 breeding season at an introductory fee of $500.

According to Professor Emeritus Tom Merritt, Lucky Zip is an excellent stallion prospect. Sired by Zip To Impress, Lucky Zip's grandsire, Impressive, has led the national stallion list on several occasions. His dam, Tuff Luck Missy, is considered a top brood mare. Lucky Zip's pedigree is

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

OCT. 26-NOV 1 1992

HARRY HOUDINI DIED, OCTOBER 31, 1926.

Harry Houdini, born on March 24, 1874, as Ehrich Weiss in Budapest, Hungary, died October 31, 1926, from complications from a ruptured appendix. On October 22 Houdini met with three students in his dressing room. One was an amateur boxer who mistakenly thought he could test Houdini's tolerance to blows to the stomach. Unfortunately Houdini didn't have time to tense his abdominal muscles. The following night during a show in Detroit, he suffered from stomach cramps and fever. Later he collapsed on stage and was taken to a Detroit hospital where he died on Halloween morning. He was buried in his bronze "buried alive" stunt coffin next to his beloved mother.

When birds and badgers are fat in October, expect a cold winter.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ To perserve the shine on countertops wipe once a week with lemon oil and then wipe dry.

EARTHWISE

What happens to all those recycled newspapers? One of the "hidden" uses is cellulose insulation. Cellulose is more energy efficient and costs less than fiberglass, which can be harmful to eyes, skin, and lungs. Cellulose is treated for fire safety with environmentally safe borax. Loose-fill cellulose is perfect for attic insulation, and a wet-spray cellulose is available for new construction. Check your yellow pages for qualified contractors and read all labels to be sure you're getting fire-rated cellulose.

SWEET AND SOUR MEATBALLS

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 1 egg
- 3 teaspoons beef bouillon, divided
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup apricot preserves
- 1 tablespoon sweet relish

Make 1-inch meatballs using beef, crumbs, egg, and 2 teaspoons of bouillon. Brown in a skillet. Remove meatballs and pour off fat. Add remaining ingredients to skillet and cook over low heat for 15 minutes, stirring often. Add meatballs, cover, and simmer for 10 minutes.

Makes 48 meatballs.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Cold wave, light rain; then heavy rain, snow mountains and west.

SOUTHEAST: Rain and colder, heavy rain north, milder south; and clearing.

MIDWEST: Rain, heavy west, colder with clouds, rain east; then clearing.

NORTHWEST: Cold, freezing rain east and coast, sunny mountains; then milder and clearing.

SOUTHWEST: Mild and rainy, sunny California; clearing and warmer, cool north coast.

OPINION

Don't Cry "Wolf" Unless There Is Indeed A Wolf

Nathan L. Hartwig, Professor of Weed Science, Penn State, had the opportunity to attend two different meetings in one day that made him wonder if we have totally lost our sense of what is and is not possible or what is and is not important. The first meeting was sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service whose business it is to provide information and help to farmers on how to reduce soil erosion. There is no question that a lot of progress has been made in the control of soil erosion but recently there has been an increased urgency because of pesticides and nutrients showing up in the ground water, streams and lakes in amounts that some people think is excessive. In order to reduce runoff from fields that are commonly clean tilled before planting, the Soil Conservation Service has launched a campaign to leave plant residue from the previous crop or to supplement this residue with cover crops where none is left to reduce rain water runoff from our fields with the associated soil, pesticides and nutrients that might be carried with it. This is a noble venture and to make sure farmers implement the plan and maintain at least a minimum amount of residue on the soil, they will not be eligible for federal subsidies unless they comply. But here is the problem. The Soil Conservation Service thinks this is possible with a reduction in the use of herbicides and especially the use of atrazine. In fact, the general population and EPA thinks its possible to grow our food with less pesticides and in response to this concern, EPA has put restrictions on the amount of atrazine farmers can use for weed control in corn and other crops for which atrazine is labeled. So what's

NOW IS THE TIME

To Turn Clocks Back

This is the weekend we turn the clocks back one hour.

As we go through this ritual at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning, there are several things to keep in mind.

This is an excellent time to change the batteries in your smoke alarms. Smoke alarms do not operate unless there are good batteries in place. These batteries should be replaced once a year.

Also, remember your animals will need time to adjust to the new time change. You may want to consider making a gradual change to standard time for chores, feeding, and milking.

Most poultry producers do not change their time clocks in poultry houses. This helps to prevent production problems due to a new lighting schedule. Also, you should check your time clocks to make sure they are set properly.

To Plant Cover Crops

Cover crops have many uses and advantages which make them economical and environmentally useful. Cover crops may help to supplement your feed supply by providing additional feed for livestock as fall, winter, or spring pasture. They may also be harvested as silage in the spring. Other major advantages include protecting the soil from erosion, capture unused nitrogen, and add organic matter to the soil and improve soil tilth. They also help to control weeds, use surplus nutrients, and help prevent nutrient runoff.

Many plants may be used as cover crops. The most popular are the winter grains. Spring oats sowed in the fall also makes an excellent cover crop that will die off over winter. If you have land which will be bare during the winter, you should consider planting a cover crop.

To Think Safety

Fall has finally arrived and we are full speed into harvest. With the late harvest season, we are in a hurry to catch up.

Do not let this hurry feeling translate into an accident.

Some additional safety tips you should keep in mind:

- Never let children drive, ride on or play near farm equipment.
- When getting off a tractor, make sure that the parking brake is set, the PTO is disengaged, and the engine is shut off. Be an airline pilot and develop a start-up and shutdown procedure you follow every time.
- Relieve hydraulic pressure before disconnecting lines.
- Never rely on a hydraulic cylinder to hold equipment up while working under it.
- Never try to unplug equipment while it is running.
- Avoid operating equipment when tired or under stress.
- Keep a fire extinguisher handy at all times.

Following good safety procedures and using common sense will help make farming a safer occupation.

Farm Forum

Editor:

Last spring I saw Dr. Spock on television demonstrating with the animal rights people. It was no great surprise when he said milk was not good for children.

Anne Duncan's letter (Lancaster Farming, Oct. 10) in response should have been the editorial.

I would like to relate my experience concerning milk.

My leg was operated on last July. Ten days later, I had a heart attack as the result of a blood clot.

After 10 days in the hospital, I was about to leave when the doctor told me to talk to the dietician who would advise me on what I should and should not eat.

The first thing she told me was to drink skim milk. I told her I was a dairy farmer and whole milk was 96 percent fat free.

She told me this was not true, and very misleading.

She said that milk was actually 40 percent fat — that since 80 percent was water, the rest was 40 percent fat!

I told her that when I drink a glass of milk, I drink the water along with the part containing the fat.

I still think it is 96 percent fat free. She said, no, it was still 40 percent fat.

The "40 percent fat" sounds like something some politician would dream up.

Albert Bartels
West Grove, Pa.

Editor's Note: We passed along a copy of Mr. Bartels' letter to Dairy Council Inc. and received this response:

It is quite easy to get confused about the fat content in various foods because the quantity of fat is measured in a few different ways.

When the label on the milk says "96 percent fat free" (which milk labels can't by law, but can only declare the percentage of fat) it means that fat makes up only 4 percent of the weight of the milk.

The confusing part is that fat contains many more calories per unit weight than any other component of the food.

Therefore, the "fat calories" can make up a larger percentage of the total calories than if we simply look at the percentage of fat by weight.

It's helpful to look at an example:

Whole milk contains 8 grams of fat per cup and 150 calories. Since each gram of fat contains 9 calo-

FINDING THE BOOK
October 25, 1992

Background Scripture:
2 Chronicles 34.
Devotional Reading:
2 Chronicles 34: 9-13.

Recently I saw a motion picture entitled Stranger Among Us (at least that's how I remember it), the story of a hardened woman police detective who, in order to catch the murderer of a Hassidic Jew, goes to the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn and lives among the Hassidic Jews as one of them. At first, confronted with their piety and devotion to the Jewish law, she is disdainful of them. But, in time, she comes to respect their devotion and begins to feel she is missing something important in her own life. The picture closes with the suggestion that, while she will not become a Hassidic Jew, there will be some meaningful changes in her life.

I have often felt much the same thing with the Amish people of southeastern Pennsylvania. While I never felt any urge to become one of them, I sometimes felt that their depth of commitment and devotion was admirable and stood in contrast to my own lifestyle which often reflected values that have little to do with the Gospel of Jesus Christ. No, I am never likely to become either Amish or Hassidic, but I have a profound sense of respect for the value of their way of life, even though it is not for me.

A TERRIBLE VOID

What the police officer in the movie found lacking in her life is what is so desperately lacking in our society: underlying values to which we are committed above all else. The legalism of the hassidic and Amish ways of life does not appeal to us, but neither does the terrible void that many of us experience. A newspaper columnist the other day was commenting upon a political figure, saying in effect that at the center of this man there was nothing but a huge vacuum—no convictions, no commitments, no values, no principles—nothing but naked ambition.

This is the kind of society I see reflected in most movies, television and other forms of media. There is nothing too sordid, too depraved, too harmful that it cannot be paraded for a profit before an audience of some kind. I find this in the media, in politics, in business, and sometimes even in religion. Anything goes so long as it advances our ambitions and goals.

From time to time God gives us an opportunity to see what is wrong with our lives. He sends us someone who embodies the way of Christ, some group whose devotion shames our own inconsistency, some tangible illustration of what he wants us and our society to be. Sometimes it happens when one or more of us discovers or rediscovers the Biblical witness. This is what happened to Israel during the reign of King Josiah. Shaphan, the royal secretary, told King Josiah: "Hilkiah the priest has given me a book"(34:18).

THE BOOK DISCOVERED

According to 2 Chronicles 34, the book of the law of Moses was discovered while, under Josiah's direction, the temple of the Lord was being restored after shameful neglect for several generations. While searching for the temple treasury in order to finance the restoration, "Hilkiah the priest found the book of the law of the Lord given through Moses" (34:14).

Josiah's reaction is dramatic: "When the king heard the words of the law he rent his clothes" (34:19). It was traditional in Judaism that tearing one's clothing was a sign of deep spiritual chagrin and repentance. When King Josiah heard what God expected of the people of Israel, he was mortified that he and his people had lived in ignorance of God's will. Because Hilkiah found the book and brought it to Josiah's attention, the King pledged himself to God, the people of Israel followed his lead, and a whole generation was saved from the folly of their godless ways.

What happened to Josiah and his people can happen to us, if we let God speak to us and consider what he wants of us. Like them, we have a book through which he can speak.

Seed quality doesn't just happen at Doebler's

WE WORK AT IT!

By Willard Jones

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager. Every pound of seed we sell meets Doebler's high standards for seed quality.

Just what is the Number One seed quality problem today?

Not germination. At least at Doebler's. We harvest ears to prevent kernel damage, then slow dry seed on the cob at low temperatures to prevent injury to the germ.

Not sizing or percent cracks and broken kernels. These quality problems are too easily corrected.

We minimize cracks at harvest by pulling burrs on the rollers of our Uni-Huskers. Rubber guards also protect ears on elevators.

Design of our sizing tower prevents cracks, too. Poly buckets cradle seed on the ride up. And kernels all but float down through the sizing and bagging process.

Then what is the Number One seed quality problem? In my opinion, varietal purity.

Too many corn companies sell 90% actual hybrid and 10% junk, seed produced by selfing, stray pollen or off type plants.

Junk seed looks O.K. but it can fool you because plants are not the selected hybrid and don't perform as well. And that can easily cost you $10 to $30 an acre.

At Doebler's, we're doing something about it. See column at right.

NEWS FLASH. WE BEAT THE FROST

Ted Doebler and Bill Camerer loaded last seed in dryers before a killing frost coated the farm.

But it was touch and go. Our seed crop was two weeks late. An early frost would have caused some problems.

Quality of this 1993 seed is exceptional. And we should be able to fill every order.

Still time to buy your 1993 seed corn at 1990 prices. Your Doebler's dealer has details.

How we protect varietal purity

It takes six steps and about 31,000 miles of walking to keep junk seed out of Doebler's bags.

Why we rogue? Corn plant characteristics are a tip off on genetic misfits. Our crews walk rows three times, or 6000 miles in 1992 at Jersey Shore, to chop out plants that are off type.

Detasseling. Six row machines with automatic sensors run most fields first, using rollers to pull female tassels.

Next come the kids. Then some 600 high school and college kids clean up behind machines. Machine or the kids repeat the cycle six times or more. For 25,000 miles.

State inspectors. As a double check we hire state inspectors to cruise fields. It's not mandatory. Just good business.

Hand sorting. Each ear is inspected twice at harvest for off type. Rejects end up in feed bin.

Winter grow outs in Florida tell us how well we did. We shoot for 100% varietal purity. Most of 1991 seed crop hit the mark.

"If you won't buy one for you, buy one for your family."

"I thought I was a tough guy. And I'd been using PTO's for years. But I found out I was no match for an unprotected PTO. Sure, I suffered some, but I managed—my family suffered a lot more. Not only the doctor's bills, but caring for me through all the pain and hospital visits. Now, things I can't do with one arm have to be done by my wife or my kids. But there's no way I want to put them in the same danger I put myself in every day. Thankfully, at long last, somebody's designed a PTO guard that really guards."

PCC Honors Hand, Lamb, Reich At Annual Meeting

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Three supporters of cooperative education programs were recently honored at the leadership recognition banquet of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives' (PCC) annual meeting recently.

Receiving the Distinguished Service Award was Dr. Paul Hand of Warminster. For 35 years, Hand has been involved in various phases of cooperative milk marketing as an economist and for the last 10 years as general manager of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

Hand has been supportive of PCC acitivities during his tenure with Atlantic. He was one of the founders of the PCC/PSU Summer Institute, a highly successful four-day cooperative education and leadership development program for high school teens, and is a strong advocate of young farmer education. He is supportive of his staff's involvement in such programs, encouraging field representatives, management, and directors to participate in local cooperative education programs.

Hand is a native of Fort Fairfield, Maine, and was graduated from the University of Maine in 1952 with a bachelor's in agricultural economics and farm management.

Stuart Lamb, faculty member at the State University of New York College of Agriculture and Technology at Cobleskill, N.Y., was the 1992 recipient of the PCC Master Educator Award.

Lamb has served the PCC/PSU Summer Institute for nearly 20 years as an instructor of cooperative business education. As a permanent staff member, he was instrumental in the development of the second year scholar program and has provided leadership to the student mini-cooperative, MINICO and guidance and input to the permanent staff in the planning and implementation of the Summer Institute.

Lamb's responsibilities at SUNY include teaching courses in agricultural business and serving as a student and organizational advisor. He is heavily involved in faculty governance and curriculm development. He currently holds the rank of associate professor.

A highlight of the 1992 program was the designation of the first recipient of the Hal F. Doran Cooperative Business Education Award that was established last year to honor individuals who demonstrate exceptional dedication and leadership in furthering the understanding of cooperatives in the American business enterprise system.

Robert T. Reich, president of Northeastern Farm Credit, Lewisburg, was selected by members of the PCC/PSU Joint Education Committee. Reich has been active as a cooperative educator and advocate for many years. He has been president and CEO of Northeastern Farm Credit Services in Lewisburg for 18 years.

Recih was elected to the PCC (then the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives) Board of Directors in 1974. While on the board, he served on numerous committees, including young member patron, annual meeting, and the PSU-PCC Joint Committee, and chaired the Education/ Leadership Development Committee for the Plan for the 1980s. He was elected vice president of the association in 1980 and went on to serve as president in 1985. His dedication to the cooperative movement and the necessity for training and retaining capable staff and owner-members is borne out by his frequent appearance as speaker and educator at many cooperative meetings, training events and schools throughout Pennsylvania and the nation.

National Lamb, Wool Marketing Conference Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Sheep producers wanting to learn more about marketing directly to consumers through the freezer market, ethnic markets, mail-order, retail food stores, and restaurants should attend a conference that will bring together marketing professionals, extension specialists, producers, and regulatory officials.

The first National Conference on Direct and Niche Marketing of Lamb and Wool will be held November 6-7 at the Turf Valley Hotel in Ellicott City, Md. The conference will feature workshops conducted by state and national leaders in commodity marketing.

The conference also will include marketing wool to fleece, processing, wool crafts, and pelt markets.

"Proper marketing and promotion are vital to any marketing program," said Dr. Clair Engle, member of the conference planning committee and associate professor of animal science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "This conference presents a tremendous opportunity to learn and sharpen these skills."

Individuals interested in selling lamb through marketing cooperatives to niche markets can learn more about the role of lamb marketing cooperatives.

"Cooperative marketing of lamb has received much attention from sheep producers this year," said Engle. "We'll examine the steps producer-controlled organizations must follow to succeed."

Lamb and wool specialty marketers will discuss the role custom processors play in merchandising products to retailers. Special sessions will focus on how to best serve niche markets for sheep milk and cheese.

More information and a registration form are available from your local cooperative extension office. The $70 registration fee includes the costs of conference materials, all refreshment breaks, and Saturday luncheon.

Accepting Donated Horses

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Police is looking for a few good horses to supplement its equestrian program.

"Horses have always been an important part of the State Police," said Col. Glenn A. Walp, Commissioner of the State Police. "When the department began 87 years ago, horses were crucial to our patrol efforts. Today they serve as important tools in crowd control and missing person searches."

The department orginally had a stable of 230 horses. There are now only 18 at the State Police Academy in Hershey.

Walp said the State Police is accepting donated horses to increase its complement.

Horses should be geldings, 5-15 years old, a minimum of 15.3 hands, quiet and sound. Horses will be accepted on a 30-day trial basis to determine suitability.

Additional information on the use and care of horses and procedures for donating can be obtained by contacting Cpl. Dave Dufford (717) 533-9111.

'Low Interest Tech Loans

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff advised farmers that they can apply for low-interest loans through a program that promotes the use of new technology in Pennsylvania.

Applications to the Agricultural Technology Loan Program (ATLP) will be accepted from October 15 through December 31.

"This program represents a tremendous opportunity for Pennsylvania farmers to take advantage of leading edge technology designed to increase efficiency and productivity," Wolff said. "It's another part of our ongoing effort to support and promote agriculture, our number one industry."

Matching loans of up to $50,000 are available at an interest rate of half the federal discount rate. Last year's loan rate was 2.5 percent.

Farmers can apply for the loans by contacting Christian Herr in the Bureau of Agricultural Development at (717) 783-8460.

Lab Has 100 Percent Qyality Record

One of the largest milk sample testing labs on the East Coast has racked up the rare distinction of having 100 percent compliance on the quality control blind sample program. For 15 consecutive months the Pennsylvania DHIA lab has a 100 percent compliance record on quality control.

"It's rare for a lab to have 100 percent compliance for a 12 month period," said Linda Scibilia, lab manager. We are running up over 15 months.

The Pennsylvania DHIA lab has four stations of testing equipment that have error handling systems built into them. If for some reason the wrong information is obtained from a milk sample, the machine shuts itself down, and the computer tells the operator where to look for the problem. This state-of-the-art equipment exceeds old equipment in performance, especially in keeping the number of incorrect readings to a minimum because of reduced human error.

The machines test for fat and protein with the added capacity to test for solids-not-fat in the future.

A somatic cell counter is also installed at each station. Calibrations are constantly monitored, and a strict preventative maintenance program has kept errors and down equipment time to a minimum.

"I just want to emphasize that for us quality is the number one issue," Scibilia said, "We do 3.3 million samples each year, and we have a very efficient operation."

While the lab has not done outside work for private companies or milk cooperatives, it has the Pennsylvania license to do so. The original cost of equipment is high (about $200,000 per machine), but the cost of maintenance and calibration is also expensive. Since small operations may not have enough samples to justify these costs or to keep their labs running full-time, future outside work for the Pennsylvania lab may be sought.

With new equipment and excellent quality control, dairymen can be assured that their test results are authentic, and the information from these results is reliable.

The Pennsylvania DHIA milk testing lab has maintained a 100 percent quality control record for more than 15 successive months. Shown in the photo are several of the four working stations that have state-of-the-art testing equipment.

Linda Scibilia is lab manager and says quality is the lab's number one issue.

What's Changed And What's Better In "Monthly Report"?

PA DHIA's previous article summarized the modifications to your reports. As this article will attempt to explain several changes to the Monthly Lactation Report. In the next few weeks I will try to specifically direct articles on other changes. The Monthly Report is currently the red, white and blue report that you receive in your orange envelope. The current size 10"x12.5" Herd Summar I (blue) and the Reproductive Management Report (brown and yellow) will also be changing to 8.5"x11" white, three hole punch paper.

The color and size on these reports are changing to a more manageable size which makes the reports more convenient to handle and to keep. Changes in the reports will be begin on November 1, 1992 along with a smaller envelope and some column changes on the Monthly Lactation Report.

Beginning with the Monthy Lactation Report and going across the top - the first change will be in the area under "Test Day Data". The first column in this section marked "Milk Lbs" will remain the same; the next two columns, which at this time looks like this:

Test Day Data
% Fat	Lbs Fat
Pro	Pro

Test Data will change to accommodate SNF and will be formatted a little differently. It will look like this:

Test Day Data
Fat % Lbs.	Pro % Lbs.	SNF % Lbs.

Each different (part of the milk) has its own column in this set up and each entity lists its percentage and pounds in the same column as opposed to having percentages of both fat and protein and pounds of both fat and protein listed together in the same column. All other columns in "Test Day Data" will remain the same.

Now, we will move on to the column under the next large section of data: "Lactation to Date". Once again, look over at the columns for "% Fat and Pro" and "Lbs Fat and Pro"; these columns will change in exactly the same way as in the "Test Day Data" section to include SNF and each (part) Fat, Pro, SNF will have its own column with percentages and pounds listed under it. Also, in this same way, the % fat pro, and lbs fat, lbs pro columns under the calf sire/calf Id-Est. 305/ME will change to three columns to accommodate SNF.

Other than the change in size, color, three holes versus the multi holes, and the changes to accommodate the new SNF column, the remaining part of the form will remain the same.

The back of the Monthly Lactation Report will have some changes. It will include for your convenience some additional charts and management information. The most important is that the SCC conversion chart will print on this report (Monthly Lactation Report) instead of the back of the Herd Summary I. This change was made to accommodate the herds that might elect to not getting the Herd Summary I but are on the Somatic Cell County option. The herds have more than one Montly Lactation Report sheet (more than 20 cows) will print individual cow test any data and lactation to date data on both sides following the first page. The first page of the Monthly Lactation Report will print the explanation data.

"Monthly Report"

This report was designed to utilize the laser printer DHIA installed last December. Another value to the size of this report reduces the cost of pre-printed forms. The added value is less postage required for mailing reports back to the member with the new size of these reports.

A binder to contain these reports will be distributed at no charge by your technician starting November 1st. We will also make available to you at the same time a green binder designed especially for the Individual Cow Page. If you are interested in purchasing this binder or additional binders after November 1, you may do so by writing a note and sending it with your next test or by calling your DHIA state office.

Several other changes are also occuring: SNF (solids not fat), which will be offered by the end of the year. The calf page will be replaced with a "Heifer Inventory Report".

The repackaging of the reports takes place in January, when every report will be an option and priced seperately. You may want to watch for future articles that will explain the unbundling of the reports.

Many have heard from your technician about the lap top computers carried by your technician for cow side entry. This eliminates the data from having to be keyed by your data entry in State College. This also allows you to retrieve data the day of your test. This will not replace the DHIA mainframe computing data that is offered at your DHIA Service Center. These reports that would benefit you are additional reports right on the spot. Use in conjunction with QBS and Dairy Comp 305 contain information that can be used to make immediate herd management decisions several days in advance of when the paper DHIA reports arrive in the mail. Component analysis data can only be added into the reports after the samples have been tested in the DHIA Service Center Laboratory. The kinds of data that might be of interest are action lists (pregnancy checks, dry dates) and ranking by test day milk for regrouping cows.

Watch for next week's article when we will discuss the form changes for year end October 10, 1992 that you will see this year, either in your packets that are distributed at your county annual banquets or by your technician.

Adams Holstein Association Holds 41st Meeting

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — A report on projects, an election of directors, and a report on a study tour to rural Argentina highlighted the 41st annual meeting of the Adams County Holstein Association held recently in the new community firehall in Gettysburg.

Marvin Brown, Littlestown, presided and introduced guests.

Michael Todt, treasurer, presented the financial report for the year. Robin Thompson reported for the auditors on accuracy of the account. President Brown recognized Todt's nine-year service to the board by presenting him with a life membership in the Dairy Shrine Club.

Josie Hess introduced Lindsey Kammerer as "Little Dairy Miss" and announced that Melissa Wenger has tendered her resignation as Dairy Princess.

Speaking for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, Ken Raney, director of member services for the PA Holstein Association in State College, congratulated the Adams County Holstein Club for making membership goal in 1992. The new membership year began October.

Raney announced that William Allen was hired Sept. 1, to manage cattle sales for the state association. He is currently receiving animals for a 200 head shipment to Egypt.

Sixty-seven springing heifers are to go on sale at the Farm Classic, Saturday, Oct. 31, at the Ag Arena, University Park.

Raney announced that the State Holstein Convention is to be held Feb. 18-20, 1993, at the Ramada Inn, Wilkes-Barre. The South-central Region PA Holstein Assoc. is to host the state convention in 1994.

Elected to the association's board were Adam Lobaugh, Guy Kehr, and Daniel Waybright.

Speaker for the evening, Nina Redding, Adams County's extension home economist provided "A Glimpse of Life in Argentina."

One of the five women sponsored by Rotary International, Nina spent a period of six weeks traveling and studying rural life in northwest Argentina.

The area featured the production of citrus and sugarcane, but included one 250-cow cairy herd which Redding visited and reported her observations.

Having resided with families in Argentina, Nina explained food customs, living conditions, and some of the health problems experienced by citizens of Argentina.

May Kay Roche reported on the 1991 cheese sale and promised another cheese order will be delivered in December. Proceeds from the sales have supported youth work and made possible a reduction in the banquet costs to members. Orders for this year's cheese sale must reach Adam Lobaugh by Oct. 24.

Thomas Piper, county agent, reported on his observations of the robotic milker unit being tested at the University of Maryland's Dairy Research Farm at Clarksville, Md.

Piper presented a series of slides reviewing dairy program highlights of 1992 with special emphasis on the dairy tour which was made to farms in York County.

Josie Hess reported that seven youth entered the dairy production contest for Holsteins which they own.

Matthew Guise was grand prize winner in milk, butterfat, and protein production. Jayne Hess received recognition for second place protein production. Melinda Wenger received recognition for second place butterfat production.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $124 Million in Extra Payments

Robert B. McSparran
President

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past five years, we returned more than $124 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $35,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Lancaster Poultry Association

birds each. That was in the earliest days of the broiler business when eggs needed to be turned by hand while incubating.

"When we purchased a small grader, we really thought we were automated," Mike said.

Because Mike worked side by side with his father, he shared his dad's love for chickens.

It seemed predestined that Mike enter Cornell University as a poultry major. But after his first year, Mike decided that he needed a business degree if he wanted to go anywhere in any industry. He switched to the University of Georgia, which was near his home and where both his parents taught. In 1956, Mike graduated with a degree in business administration and finance.

For the next three years, Mike's career took a detour from the poultry industry. He became an officer in the Air Force, graduated from flight school and became a B52 navigator.

At this point in his life, Mike planned to make a career in the Air Force, but when his dad told him that he was needed to run the home hatchery, Mike returned to Georgia.

By then, his dad's formerly fledgling hatchery had turned into a full-scale hatchery operation, and Mike became sales manager for chicks over four southern states.

Mike was the first to represent Babcock chicks in North Carolina, where he eventually settled. Throughout the years, Mike has worked in the poultry industry in sales, as a chief executive officer, purchasing agent, and production manager for a poultry operation with one million layers and 4 million starter pullets per year.

"I was fortunate to do so many different jobs in the industry," Mike said. "If you stay in the same industry but do the same job year after year, you gain little in experience."

During this time, Mike and his first wife (who later died) had two children. Five years ago Mike married Betsy, who also has two children.

Four years ago, Mike became a 10-state sales representative for Intervet. His new job required a move to Lancaster County where Mike and his wife settled in a two-story Colonial home in Lititz. He finds the county fascinating and is intrigued that the county produces enough eggs for 9 million people.

"Intervet is by far the fastest growing vaccine company in the world, and it is great to be part of something that is going somewhere in this economy," Mike said. Intervet's parent company is Akzo, the fourth largest Dutch company of Europe, located in the Netherlands. Mike credits the company's strength to marketing vaccines around the world.

Out of 13 salespersons, Mike was named Salesman of the Year for the first two years with the company. Last year, he was second.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The annual Lancaster County Poultry Banquet will be held Tuesday, October 27, at Willow Valley Palm Court. The banquet begins at 6:30 p.m. Following a brief business meeting, election of directors, and membership sign up, the Chambersburg High School Steel Band will provide entertainment.

With eight other companies selling similar products in Mike's area, he finds it important "to sell more than a product. We 'sell' information to help make a poultry manager's job easier so that the birds perform better."

While sales competition is stiff, Mike finds it easy to get appointments because he studies the background of potential customers to see what they need.

"Independents don't have all the resources that large companies do," he said.

Mike is constantly on the road, and his wife often accompanies him.

When Betsy first married Mike, she knew nothing about the poultry industry. Now, Mike proudly refers to her as "my secret weapon."

For it is Betsy, who brings southern charm and hospitality into his meetings with sales contacts. It is she who is an adept cook and serves gracious dinners highlighting poultry's finest recipes.

"You should taste Betsy's southern fried chicken and her North Carolina barbecue," Mike brags.

At the Northeast Poultry Show held in Lancaster a few weeks ago, Betsy prepared egg rolls, smoked turkey breast and ham, chicken salad, and hot wings as part of the hospitality.

As former vice president of the North Carolina Egg Marketing Board, Mike knew the importance of being associated with a poultry organization. As soon as he moved to the county, he joined the Lancaster Poultry Association, and in four years has served as chairman of the education, banquet and publicity committees. He has held the office of vice president and as secretary. As the newly appointed president, Mike replaces Tom Pantano, whose two-year term expires.

Mike said, "We have an excellent 12-member board. This area has a tremendous advantage with strong independent producers and strong work ethic."

Attendance at the last two annual banquets has increased from less than 200 to 500 persons. Mike attributes the increase to managerial skills of selling tables to companies rather than individuals.

The board is working on producing a video of the county poultry industry. It would be used in trade shows, Ag in the Classroom, and to attract new markets.

"We have to sell the idea that the poultry industry is good for the the county. If you don't toot your own horn, you don't get tooted," Mike said of the association's effort to accentuate the positives of the industry.

Another project of the association is to provide partial funding for Penn State to hire a specialist to work with meat birds. This is necessary because the Casey administration has severely cut university funding.

Mike sees nutrient management as the big issue that the industry is facing.

"It's been a tight year, not a profitable one for the producer. The money is in processing," Mike said of the demand for liquid eggs, which allows nursing homes and eating establishments to control portions and provide pasteurization conveniently.

Mason-Dixon

around a corn field . . . he smiles at how well it works.

While he may have been a driving force in getting it built, Waybright said a number of people and businesses were involved in its creation — the credit for its creation is shared.

But more than having built a large silage harvester, Mason-Dixon Farms has actually created an innovative forage harvesting system.

The machine is kept at the 2,000-acre Mason-Dixon Farms, located in Adams County along the Pennyslvania-Maryland border. The farm is well known for being the largest (until recently) dairy production facility in the state.

The large farm milks almost 1,300 cows. They have a strong need to take in corn silage when the moisture content is right. It means a lot when trying to control feed value and consistency.

Waybright recently stood in the neatly stubbled, already harvested portion of a neighboring farm's cornfield explaining the system, while the odd-looking contraption made short work of the remaining stand.

At Mason-Dixon, very near 1,100 acres of corn were to be harvested for silage. Because of a dent in silage reserves caused by last year's drought, Mason-Dixon Farms this year bought about 200 additional acres of standing corn from neighbors who had planted more than needed.

Short work was made of fields which typically could have taken several days.

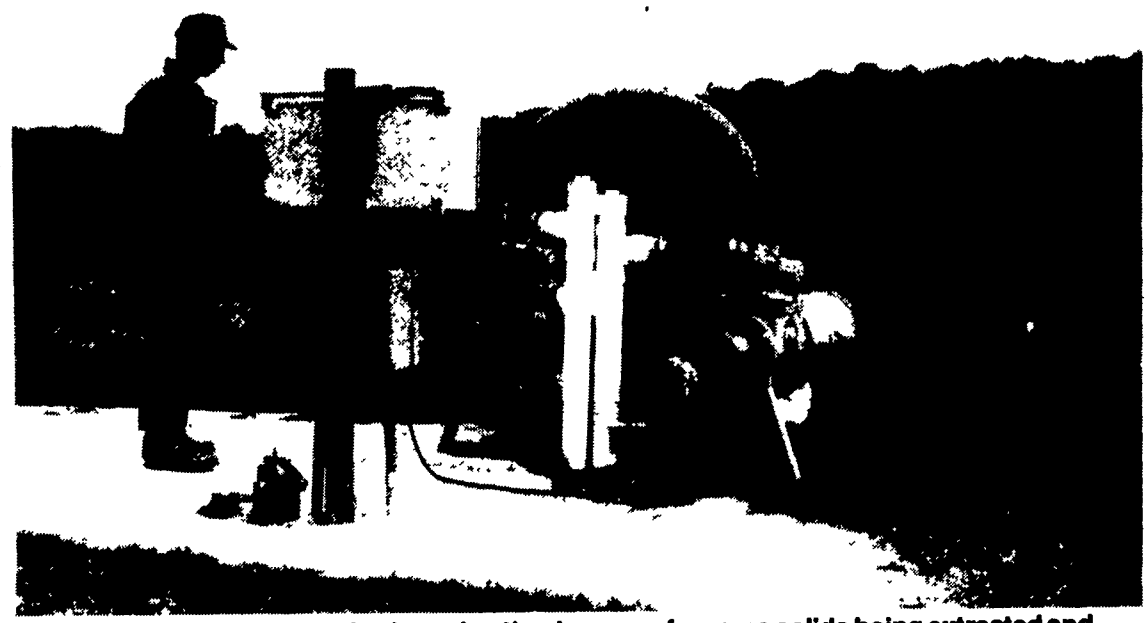
The special silage harvesting system works with two different types of tractors and several 40-foot containers with "walking floors."

A specially built Claas six-row forage harvester modified to ride on three sets of custom-built rubber tracks is essentially the field tractor.

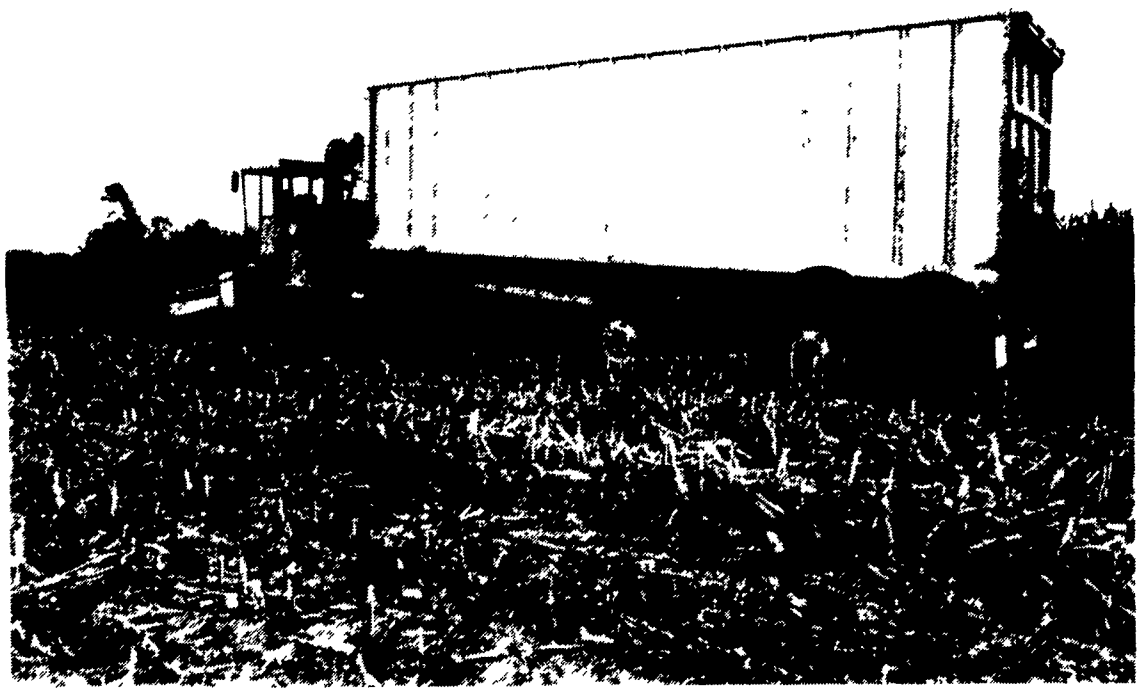
(Turn to Page A27)

Bert Waybright sits at a table in the Mason-Dixon Farms Manufacturing 'think tank,' which has shelves of technical manuals for reference when looking for specifics in creating a new piece of machinery, or repairing existing ones. It also serves as a lunch room.

A hired man hooks up a milker in one of the twin-double 12 herringbone parlors at Mason-Dixon Farm.



Bert Waybright stands observing the dryness of manure solids being extracted and dropped down about 10 feet onto a dry storage platform. In the distance, a liquid storage lagoon is just visible near the tree line.



This is the first tracked harvester built at Mason-Dixon which employed a different approach to engaging and disengaging the forage containers.

The working bay at Mason-Dixon Farms is where an innovative forage mega-harvester and other devices have been and are to be built.

A regular diesel truck with an extended, wheeled rear end is the hauling tractor.

Also key to the system are the containers used to hold and transport the raw silage.

These are unique containers, appearing as trailers with no wheels.

The containers stand on their own, having three hydraulically operated "legs" — two near the front, and a rear bumper-like stand.

With the containers in the supported position, either tractor can back its sets of wheels or tracks underneath the container and lock into the receivers, making for a stable, yet quickly detatchable unit.

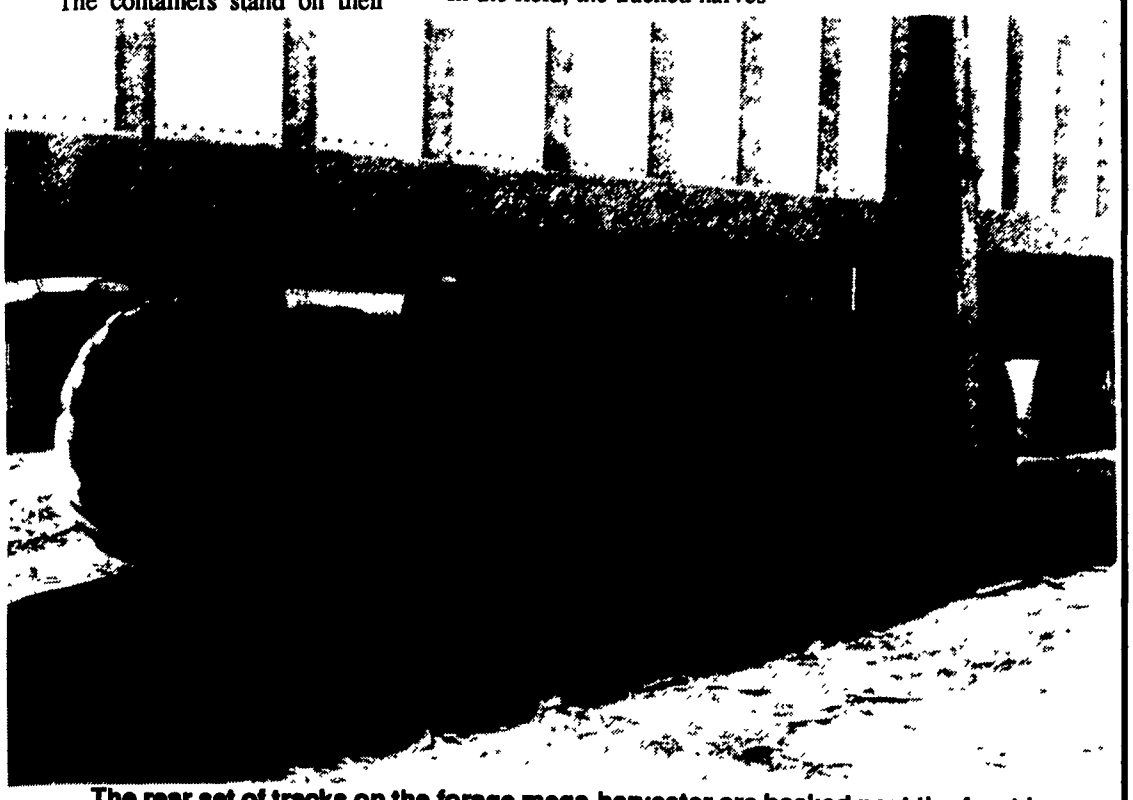
In the field, the tracked harvester, with only 8 pounds-per-square-inch compaction force (compares to about three times that on wheels), quickly fills the 30-ton capacity containers and brings them out to the end of the field. There, the container's stands are engaged through the hydraulic system.

Once the container is self standing, the tracked harvester detaches its hydraulic couplings and other locks, and pulls out from underneath the container.

While the tracked harvester moves into position to pick up a standing empty container, the transport vehicle backs under the full container and takes it back to the farm.

At the farm, the containers are emptied through the use of a hydraulic "walking floor" which slowly pushes the silage out in a pile at the top of one of the cemented and roofed trench silos located near the freestalls.

(Turn to Page A35)



The rear set of tracks on the forage mega-harvester are backed past the front legs toward the rear where hydraulic hookups are located.

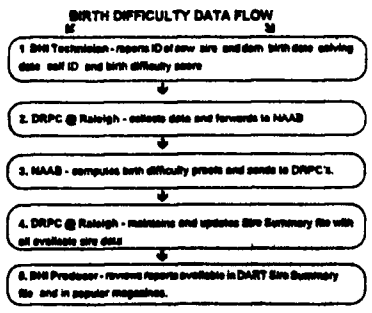
Should My Supervisor Report Birth Difficulty Scores?

DRPC @ Raleigh



BIRTH DIFFICULTY DATA FLOW
1. DHI Technician - reports ID of new sire and dam, birth date, calving date, calf ID and birth difficulty score
2. DRPC @ Raleigh - collects data and forwards to NAAB
3. NAAB - computes birth difficulty proofs and sends to DRPC's.
4. DRPC @ Raleigh - maintains and updates Sire Summary file with all available sire data
5. DHI Producer - receives reports available in DART Sire Summary file and in popular magazines.

Bulls influence the body shape of their offspring because these traits have a genetic component These traits have some affect on the degree of ease with which calves are born

With the use of AI, producers soon began to recognize that heifers mated to particular bulls experienced great difficulty when they calved This led AI organizations to seek ways to evaluate their bulls for birth difficulty

Since calving information must be recorded in DHI records, birth difficulty data can be recorded and collected at the same time Barn notes and barnsheets now distributed from DRPC@Raleigh include a column for recording birth difficulty scores for calvings These codes are

1 - No Problem
2 - Slight Problem
3 - Needed Assistance
4 - Considerable Force
5 - Extreme Difficulty

Reporting of birth difficulty scores on DHI records is not required However, it is the easiest way to report raw data from which AI bull proofs for calving ease can be calculated The codes should be as accurate as possible Each calving should be scored

Where does birth difficulty data go and how can it be used? After the birth difficulty codes are reported by your DHI Supervisor, the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) collects the data from all dairy record processing centers in the nation These data are added to the data base for calvings reported since 1978. The genetic evaluations of bulls for birth difficulty is calculated and expressed in "% Difficult 1st Births." Difficult births are those with scores of 4 and 5.

DRPC@Raleigh maintains a file of active AI sires which is updated each January and July with data from USDA, the breed associations, as well as NAAB. The information in this file is available for producers, consultants, Extension and DHI Managers through DART.

Feed Grain Program

YORK (York Co.) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Madigan announced a 1993 Acreage Reduction (ARP) of 10 percent for corn, 5 percent for grain sorghum, and zero percent for barley and oats, according to Wayne Beshore, chairperson of the York County ASC Committee.

Beshore said, "The 1993-crop corn ARP is up from the 5 percent 1992 level because of carryover stocks and the prospects of a large 1992 crop." Other feed grain ARP is 0 percent for barley and oats.

Beshore said, "The 1990 farm bill requires that the 1993 feed grain set aside be announced by September 30. Final changes must be made no later than November 15."

York County farmers who have questions may call or visit the county office at 120 Pleasant Acres Rd., (717) 755-2801.

Mike supports a free trade world market. "Europe and the Far East want the genetic technology that we have," he said.

He frowns on using a quota system like that used by Canada.

"You can produce products more efficently without a quota system," he said.

He believes that the conservative nature of this area allows farmers to weather bad times better than other areas. "Companies in this area compete, but it is not cut-throat, which adds more stability to the area," Mike said.

Mike said that he thrives on pressure, challenges, and likes people. These qualities he expect will serve him well as president of the association.

"The Lancaster Poultry Association is head and shoulders above anywhere I have traveled — and I've been all over the country," Mike said.

He would like to see membership in the association grow.

"People are willing to give time to an organization if they can see they are working for the good of the industry," said Mike. "The poultry association is here to help producers and processors."

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "Volunteers are the most exciting part of our organization," said Dr. Donald Evans to the 4-H leaders of Lancaster County who gathered at the annual recognition banquet Wednesday night.

Evans, assistant dean of the College of Ag Sciences at Penn State, said there are about 50,000 volunteers who work in a wide array of Penn State Extension programs across the state, out of some 3 million nationwide. More than 575 serve in Lancaster County 4-H alone, serving "the finest youth program in this country and the world," he said.

Evans spoke about the current 4-H program and its drive to reach out to the developing democracies in eastern Europe. He announced that, beginning November 20, two 4-H leaders in the county — Zonann Parker and Connie Rutt — will travel to the Polish town of Skierniewice, 50 miles southwest of Warsaw, to bring to the people of Poland the "miracle concept called voluntarism," coupled with private enterprise in a free market system.

Marilyn Holloway, right, was honored as Outstanding 4-H'er by Kerry Boyd at the Lancaster 4-H leaders banquet Wednesday night.

At the banquet, guest Dr. Tomasz Gruszeck, professor of animal science at the University of Agriculture, Lublin, Poland, said it was a "nice surprise" to meet the volunteers who have provided many activities for young people. Gruszeck will be hosted by Penn State for the next several weeks.

Ellen Curry, organization leader of the Seeing Eye Puppy Club, spoke about the recent Northeast Regional 4-H Leaders Forum held in West Virginia. Next year's event will be held in Princeton, N.J.

This year's Outstanding 4-H'er, Marilyn Holloway, thanked the 4-H leaders for their "love of kids, patience, and caring attitude" and how much their encouragement means to the 4-H'ers.

At the banquet, Elvin Hess was honored for providing 35 years of service to 4-H. Also honored were William Dean and Albert Goss, each for providing 25 years of service to the Lancaster 4-H program.

Also honored were, 5th year leaders, Jacqueline Klaassen, Ruth Ann Yost, and Ruth Ann Nussbaum; 10th year, Frank R. Bentrem, Linda Gundy, Virginia Ranck, Joanne Siegrist, Martha Zepp, and Ralph McLaughlin; 15th year, Kerry Boyd, Helen Farrington, and Lilli Ann Kopp; and 20th year, Evelyn Hartman, Carol Henkel, and Jean Wagner.

At the banquet, several 4-H leaders were honored for their service. From left, Albert Goss, 25 years; Elvin Hess, 35 years; and William Dean, 25 years.

Farmers', Ranchers' Group Forms

CENTER HALL (Armstrong Co.) — A group of state agricultural leaders announced today the formation of Pennsylvania "Farmers and Ranchers 92." The committee is devoted to advancing the interests of agriculture and rural America in the current election year.

Representative Ruth Rudy, group spokesperson, said the committee is supporting Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton for President. Rudy said, "Because agriculture is the number one industry in Pennsylvania, we in agriculture are very concerned about the survival and progression of the family farm. Governor Clinton has a proven agriculture record in Arkansas and I believe his election is in the best interest of rural America."

Pennsylvania co-chairs are: Representative Ruth Rudy, Chair of the Penn Ag Democrats; Secretary Boyd E. Wolff, PA Department of Agriculture; Carl Shaffer, Columbia County farmer; L.L. Neely, Clarion County farmer; Doug Kilgore, York County farmer; Jerome Carl, Cambria County farmer; Larry Kehl, Berks County farmer; Joel Rotz, Franklin County farmer; and Bob Junk, Fayette County farmer.

"Bill Clinton understands the importance of agriculture in the overall economy" said Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff. Agriculture remains Pennsylvania's largest industry. Cash income from farm marketings during 1990 totaled $3.78 billion, up 6% from the previous year. Another 38 billion dollars in economic activity is generated annually by Pennsylvania agriculture said Wolff.

Governor Clinton has pledged to farmers that he will:

- work to open markets now closed to American agricultural products; act to level the playing field in international trade; remove unfair trade barriers so farmers will have access to new markets.

- consider farmers views on environmental policy issues; guarantee that farmers don't bear the all the costs of environmental protection; provide incentives to farmers to protect the environment.

- cut unnecessary paperwork and regulation that waste time and cause delays in farm program implementation; preserve federal farm subsidies at current levels.

- expand the use of renewable energy resources like ethanol to reduce pollution and dependence on foreign oil.

the problem you ask. The problem is, corn doesn't yield much without weed control and in order to have the required plant residue left on the soil surface to reduce water runoff, tillage as a means of weed control cannot be used since the plant residue gets buried in the process. So what is a farmer to do? He has to use herbicides since there is no other reasonable method of controlling weeds in crops that are grown on millions of acres in the United States. In order to grow corn without tillage, a practice that was becoming more and more common over the last 20 years, atrazine was part of the weed control program on over 90% of the corn acres in the United States and at one time as high as 94% of the corn acreage (about 1.5 million acres) in Pennsylvania was treated with atrazine. Atrazine effectively controls many weeds including quackgrass, one of the most competitive perennial grasses that virtually every farmer in Pennsylvania has had to fight at one time or another.

The second meeting was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and its purpose was to give CIBA-Geigy, the chemical company that discovered atrazine in the 1950s, a chance to explain the health hazards from exposure to atrazine and the precautions that now must be taken when handling and using atrazine. As it turns out, atrazine has been shown to cause mammary tumors in female Sprague Dawley rats. These are a specific strain of rat used to test for potential cancer causing agents since they have a high potential for getting cancer anyway. Other strains of rat have not shown an increased potential for getting cancer in atrazine feeding studies. Atrazine has an acute toxicity of approximately half that of table salt but due to its potential to cause cancer in female Sprague Dawley rats there is a thousand fold safety factor in the amount EPA considers safe in drinking water. EPA considers 3 parts per billion (ppb) of atrazine to be "safe" in drinking water. In order to consume as much atrazine as was fed to the Sprague Dawley rats to cause mammary tumors, one would have to drink 22,000 gallons of water per day containing 3 parts per billion of atrazine.

On March 31, 1992, the esteemed Dr. Bruce N. Ames, Professor of Biochemistry and Head of the Department of Biochemistry at the University of California in Berkeley was at Penn State to give two lectures on chemicals that cause cancer and aging. Dr. Ames has spent his professional career studying cancer causing chemicals that we are all exposed to and the amounts of cancer causing chemicals in the common things we all eat and drink. He has pointed out that beer contains 3 to 5% alcohol which is 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 parts per billion and alcohol is known to cause cancer of the liver. Wine contains 5 to 9% alcohol (50,000,000 to 90,000,000) parts per billion Normal chlorinated tap water contains the carcinogen chloroform at 83 micrograms per liter (83 parts per billion U.S. average), which is generated from chlorinating the water, and cola contains the carcinogen formaldehyde at 2,800 micrograms per 12 ounces (7,900 parts per billion). Coffee contains about 1,000 micrograms (4,000 parts per billion) of hydrogen peroxide (a known carcinogen) per cup as well as about 1,000 micrograms (4,000 parts per billion) of methylglyoxal, which has recently been shown to be a carcinogen. If we are concerned about atrazine in our water that may exceed 3 parts per billion should we not be concerned about these other cancer causing compounds as well?

His conclusions are "The carcinogens and toxic chemicals found in California water supplies (and presumably U.S. water supplies) are present in extraordinarily tiny amounts and, except in rare cases, are present in trivial amounts relative to the background level of carcinogens in Nature." He also states that "I am convinced that water pollution is irrelevant to the causes of human cancer. We are ingesting natural pesticides (those produced by plants) in our diet in amounts at least 10,000 times more than man-made pesticide residues."

The people attending these meetings and the two seminars by Dr. Ames were in my mind all of above average intelligence but we still cannot agree on what is and is not important. EPA has now made atrazine a restricted use herbicide which means a farmer or anyone else can't buy it without a license but any kid with 50 cents can get a coke from the nearest coke machine without any warning to the hazards of drinking coke! A farmer has to get dressed up with cotton coveralls over a long-sleeved shirt and long pants, use chemical resistant gloves and waterproof boots to protect himself from exposure to atrazine during application and is warned to take a shower or at least thoroughly wash his hands before eating or drinking. Lets be fair and put similar warnings on every jar of coffee, can of beer or water faucet or save such cries of wolf for when there is indeed a wolf.

Gekas Supports Estate Transfer Proposal, Insurance Deductions

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Affirming his stance has being "close to farmers," U.S. Rep. George W. Gekas (R-17th Dist) took in several campaign stops in the area to field questions from the community Thursday.

Because of the reapportionment of districts which takes place January 1, 1993, if elected, Gekas will serve areas previously held by Rep. Robert Walker.

Gekas said that he supports a bill, currently endorsed by farm-backed groups such as the Pennsylvania Farmers Association and others, that would allow farmers to transfer their estates without the excessive burden of the transfer tax.

Gekas said he also supports a tax deduction for health insurance premiums "one hundred percent," he said. "In short, whatever the farmer association says to this city kid about farm matters, I listen very closely and I honor their viewpoints on those things."

Many of the questions that Gekas answered related to the current recession, which Gekas blames largely because of the 1986 tax revision. The revisions disallowed income averaging for farmers, to buoy them up in case of drought or other income-reducing events.

The tax revision, he said, "has in my judgement helped cause the economical destablization we're in right now. Many of those things I pointed out were directly inimical to the farmer, and I stated this on the floor."

Gekas said he found 50 different flaws in the bill, and several unfriendly to farm and farm industries. One of them was the income averaging provision. "We used to give (farmers) the privilege of income averaging so that they could come out better, and they ripped that away in the '86" bill, he said.

"Almost everything that the past Congress has tried to do has had some adverse affect on some sector of the economy," said Gekas. The representative said that if a cure were to take place, there would be need for "some deficit spending in the first rung of the ladder by which we're going to climb out of this recession" by using the surplus from the highway trust fund. He supports the bill "0 By 2000," which includes many areas subject to cutbacks and freezes, including portions of cutbacks fostered by the Gram-Rudman-Hollings Act.

Currently, Gekas's office includes 14 people in four offices. With the reapportionment, Gekas will set up three offices in Harrisburg and in Lebanon and Lancaster counties.

Awards and certificates for the top 15 placings will be presented during the All American Junior Banquet and Fun Fest held in Louisville, Kentucky on November 7. Proceeds from the National Heifer Sale are used to provide awards for the owners of the top fifteen cows in the contest. Youth between ages of nine and 19 on January 1 of the contest year are encouraged to maintain production records on their animals and enter them in a contest. Entires are due in the AJCC office March 1 each year.

excellent, and he has already proven himself as a sire, having produced futurity winners in Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

According to an article in Western Horsemen (October 1992), Lucky Zip's maternal grandmother's brother, Zippo Pine Bar, the all-time leading sire of western pleasure futurity winners with earnings in excess of $2 million, was recently inducted into the National Snaffle Bit Hall of Fame. Zippo Pine Bar has been on the American Quarter Horse Association's (AQHA) lists of both the leading sires of performance horses and point-earning performance horses for the past four years. He's also the AQHA's leading sire of show Register of Merit qualifiers. He has sired numerous world champions in the Quarter Horse, Paint, and Appaloosa breeds.

Penn State's horse herd manager, Ward Studebaker, said that Lucky Zip is extremely gentle, has a good disposition, and is showing potential to perform well. "In just a few weeks, his athletic ability and potential for pleasure riding is evident," said Studebaker. He describes the horse's physical make-up as well-balanced and just plain pretty.

Horse enthusiasts can catch a glimpse of Lucky Zip on weekdays and most Saturday mornings at Penn State's horse barn. Studebaker said facility staff are always willing to show visitors the new horse and others in the herd. If you would like to inquire about Lucky Zip's breeding potential, call Studebaker at (814) 863-0834.

Wayne Beshore

100,000-pound production milk and type classification included 3 Excellents, 16 Very Goods and 20 Good Plus scores. All-around performance by the herd had earned Beshore the Holstein Association's Progressive Breeder recognition six consecutive years, beginning in 1973.

Beshore herd genetics went far beyond the New Cumberland herd. By the early 1980's, six of their homebred sires were in A.I. service, two at Atlantic Breeders Cooperative in Lancaster and four at various locations throughout the Midwest. Merchandising of the herd breeding also included embryo transfer and export sales.

An ardent supporter of Holstein activities, E. Wayne Beshore served numerous years as a Pennsylvania delegate to the national Holstein convention, as a state director and past county president. He is a past president of the Pennsylvania Diarymen's Association and recipient of their 1991 yearbook dedication. Other past agriculture activities include director terms on the county DHIA and Farmers Home Administration boards.

The retired dairy farmer currently chairs the York County ASCS committee, is active with the Grange and serves on the boards of the York County Farmland Trust, his local school district and the township planning committee.

Beshore and his wife Athena were vacationing and did not attend the meeting where the suprise award was announced. Accepting the honor for his father was Jed Beshore, the couple's youngest son and third-generation operator of the New Cumberland family dairy farm. The couple's other three children are Marvin, a Harrisburg attorney, Joy and Kirby, both stockbrokers in Harrisburg.

Two plaques of recognition were awarded to junior members whose 4-H project animals were named All-American winners. Shannon Doll, Brodbecks, won national recognition with her fall yearling heifer, while Amy Trimmer, East Berlin, took an All-American award for her spring calf.

The county's Junior Holstein Association has been reactivated, according to leader Patti Hushon who reported on the youth group's activities. Serving as officers in the York Junior Holstein Club are Dixie Doll, president, Jason Smith, vice-president, Michelle Walker, secretary, and Brad Walker, treasurer.

In a brief business meeting, three directors were elected to the county Holstein board. Named to the three-year terms are Dan Hushon, Delta, Larry Amspacher, Emigsville, and Leonard Greek, Delta.

State director Scott Cooper, Delta, reported that York County will participate in the Pennsylvania Holstein Association's holiday cheese sale fundraiser. County chairman of the cheese sale is Troy Zirkle, Manchester. Participants in the county's advertising program in Pennsylvania Profiles magazine are being sought; potential advertisers are requested to contact Scott Cooper.

Jersey Youth Recognized

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Jersey Cattle Club has announced the top 10 winners in the 1991 National Jersey Youth Achievement Contest.

These top 10 youngsters represent the elite of the Jersey youth across the nation. The award, which has been presented for the past 34 years, is based on the individual's leadership activities, and their managment and breeding practices of their Jersey herds.

To be eligible for the contest, juniors must own one or more registered Jerseys and be between the ages of nine and 19 on Jan. 1 of the contest year. Juniors are nominated by their state Jersey Association.

Kenneth G. Ropp of Normal, Illiniois, captured first place in 1991 Natioanl Jersey Youth Achievement Contest. He is the son of Ray and Carol Ropp and placed fifth in last year's contest. Ken is attending the University of Illinois, majoring in animal science and dairy science.

While attending college, Ken has worked with the dairy herd in a dairy nutrition project which involves feeding different supplements and measuring the effect on milk production.

At present, Ken owns 19 registered animals. He credits his dairy judging experiences in helping him learn the desirable traits for breeding his own cattle. On the Unversity of Illinois dairy judging team, Ken was the top team member at the Louisville, Kentucky competition.

Ken is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity at the University of Illinois and a lifetime member of Dairy Shrine. He continues to work with the 4-H, spending the summer of 1991 as the assistant in the county extension office. His plans are to use the leadership skills he has learned and promote the Jersey cow and her products.

Ken and the nine other winners will be presented cash awards totalling $2,000 at the Junior Banquet and Fun Fest held during the All American Jersey Show in Louisville, Kentucky on November 7.

Admiring E. Wayne Beshore's York County Holstein Hall of Fame award are grandchildren Angie and K.C. Beshore with their parents Jed and Sue. At right is Keith Shaffer, York County Holstein president who presented the honor.

Groundwater Conference In New Holland

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Basic groundwater hydrology, tools, and techniques for groundwater protection will highlight the Lancaster Groundwater Policy Education Project Conference on Nov. 17 here at Yoder's Restaurant.

Local groundwater protection projects will be highlighted at the conference, which begins at 12:30 p.m. with registration.

Water rights and water law, in addition to roundtable discussions to address local groundwater problems and solutions, will also be discussed. Participants will come away from the conference with an increased understanding of groundwater resources, strategies for protecting groundwater supplies, and contacts for regional groundwater protection efforts, according to a project spokesperson.

The project is a cooperative effort amoung the League of Women Voters of Lancaster County, Lancaster County Cooperative Extension, and the Lancaster County Planning Commission to foster groundwater policy education in Lancaster County.

Featured speakers include Jon D. Witten, president of Horsley Witten Hegemann, Inc., a water resource and landing planning consulting firm in Cambridge, Mass.; R. Timothy Weston, partner in the Harrisburg office of Kirkpatrick and Lockhart, a practice focusing on environmental counseling in litigation, administrative, and legislative issues; Dr. Walter F. Ebaugh, president of Nittany Geoscience Inc., State College; Virginia G. Thompson, chief of the ground water protection, drinking water/ground water protection, water management division, EPA Region III; and Edwina Coder, chairperson of the Lancaster County Planning Commission.

The system isn't applicable for every operation, but is better for larger farms, where speed of harvest and number of acres make the cost of the large and specialized machinery effective.

Until recently, the Mason-Dixon farm was the largest facility in Pennsylvania for milking dairy cattle. This summer, R. Wayne Harpster unveiled a slightly larger facility, yet to reach capacity.

Bert said he sees this as the trend and future of dairying, which is part of the reason he sees value in mega-harvesters which can make tight turns, harvest quickly and offer the benefits of minimized soil compaction.

"It has a fairly low center of gravity and the weight is spread out. It has real stability. We have a couple of fields go 15 percent (slope) and there are terraces on them," he said, adding that the vehicle's 12-foot-wide track base provides more safety on the slopes.

"The design is pretty well where we want it to be," Waybright said. "There are some other changes I would like to make."

One thing especially, Bert said, is that he would like to reduce the time it takes to switch hauling vehicles.

Currently, it takes about three minutes to switch from a full to an empty container. Although that is not a long delay, Bert said he would like to make the switch faster.

Downsizing the system doesn't reduce its cost of manufacture, which also detracts from its probable purchase and use on the smaller local farms.

According to Waybright, the eighth generation at Mason-Dixon, there is a possibility of the machinery being used on large farms in other parts of the world.

The mega-harvester at Mason-Dixon is a prototype that was made at the farm. The manufacturing of their own machinery is something that has been ongoing at Mason-Dixon.

Waybright said plans are to use an existing crew and the farm's large shop to assemble up to four of the mega-harvesters a year, depending on demand.

Claas and Mason-Dixon have arranged that Claas is to do the marketing of the finished product overseas.

The mega-harvester is not the first attempt at building a better harvester at Mason-Dixon.

An earlier rig, still in use, and possibly for sale, works well, but it didn't satisfy Waybright, he said.

It has a smaller chopper head and works with a different type of silage container — a more typical trailer, with a rear set of wheels.

The tracks from the rig are also backed underneath the container, but the hookup is different — the rig lifts up and picks the container's tires off of the ground.

Almost everything about the new system is custom-made or adapted.

He said that, except for looking at several components and giving the machine more field time, the final megaharvester's design is completed.

"It will probably be another year (until) building another track harvester for sale," he said.

Claas and Mason-Dixon Farms have an agreement so that Mason-Dixon buys parts and materials at OEM price to produce the machines.

Waybright said he hopes to have orders for the machines within the near future.

Despite the attention to machinery, the cow is still the top functioning priority at Mason-Dixon, and work on that end has shown a steady increase in average milk production.

Currently, production averages at more than 21,000 pounds of milk and has continued growth from 18,000 pounds two years ago.

The all-grade Holsteins cows are fed a totally mixed ration and milked three times a day in twin double-12 milking parlors.

The farm bottles some of its own milk, which is marketed to restaurants, high schools, colleges and for home delivery. The rest is marketed through a cooperative.

About 25 workers are employed at Mason-Dixon as field workers and herdspeople, and, as with most farming operations, jobs are not specifically defined.

However, in addition to designing machines and working on projects in the shop, Bert's role in the business also covers managing the manure handling.

The rolling red shale farmland is not the best in the state, but it is cared for, and there are other innovative and time- and cost-saving practices at the farm which help raise forage crops, such as irrigation with nutrient providing manure-liquid.

The liquid is the end result of manure processing which Bert also oversees.

Using a series of underground, cement lined, anaerobic manure digesters, the farm burns low BTU value, bio-gas (methane and other hydrocarbons) for electricity.

Excess biogass is stored in a large bladder immersed in water inside an uninsulated building.

After passing through the anaerobic digesters, the manure is pumped through a pair of solids extraction devices which squeeze the fluid from the slurry and allows the solids to be stored on a cement dry storage pad.

The dried manure is used for field application and several tractor-trailer loads are picked up every year by an area business which uses it to make a commercial soil-enhancing product.

The fluid is sent to a retaining lagoon and, when needed, pumped hundreds of yards underground to six irrigation unit pivots. Fluid pipes and electrical lines run underground to each of the pivots.

From the pivots, located in the middle of crop fields, above-surface, wheeled irrigation pipes disperse the liquid in a 360 degree radius from the pivot. The pipes range in length from 800 feet to 1,500 feet.

The operation is located in the Potamac River watershed, but Mason-Dixon hasn't used any of the cost-sharing funds which may be available through federal agencies for reducing the impact of the farm on the watershed.

Nevertheless, the farm was awarded a state conservation farm award last year.

The farm, which is primarily owned by the families headed by Bert's father Richard and uncle Horace is very much a corporation. In order to maintain competitiveness, a corporation must constantly review new technologies and determine the applicability and benefit to the business, Bert said.

Possibly in the near future, Bert said he may even expand some of the uses of the farm tracked vehicles — "I'm looking to build a manure spreader . . .

ries, whole milk contains 72 out of its 150 calories as fat, or about 50 percent.

However, 1 percent fat milk contains only 3 grams of fat per cup and 100 calories. Since each gram of fat contains 9 calories, 1 percent milk contains only 27 percent of its calories as fat.

The great thing about dairy products is that there is a wide variety of low-fat and nonfat products to choose from for those individuals who must reduce fat intake.

Even whole milk may be planned into some low-fat diets when other higher fat foods are restricted.

For those who do not need to limit fat intake, whole milk dairy products offer a delicious and nutritious contribution to the daily diet.

All types of milk, regardless of fat content, supply a concentrated source of calcium, protein, riboflavin, and vitamin D, which are essential nutrients for good health.

Editor:

Dump the National Dairy Board? I think not!

The National Dairy Board (NDB), along with the National Dairy Council (NDC) and American Dairy Council (ADC), are moving tons and tons of dairy products.

These organizations promote with razor-sharp expertise and professionalism. They research continually, so when fly-by-night activists lay claims, these farmer-sponsored organizations offset their claims with hards facts.

I don't have time to do it, but I do have 15 cents per hundredweight to bask in the glory when the extremists are cut down!

These organizations (NDB, NDC and ADC), working together, have propelled dairy products on to the marketing fast track. We must remain in the forefront of the public eye. Promotion and exposure will continue to sell our products as we continue to produce milk in surplus.

As U.S. dairymen proceed to the 21st Century with masterful milk production, so must we continue to promote and market our products through sponsorship of the National Dairy Board, National Dairy Council, and American Dairy Council. What the organizations have already accomplished is nothing short of amazing.

Editor,

I have wanted to write to you for sometime but never could find the time but do to an injury. I now have time to do so.

We have been receiving your Lancaster Farm paper for quite a number of years and really enjoy it.

I usually go for the B section since I'm a partially retired farmers wife.

I really like the recipe page and Joyce Bupp and Ida Risser's column.

I really enjoy their column, Being A Farm Wife and mother of five children, I can relate to a lot of things they speak of.

I really think you should have another column following the same manner.

Ida has seen her children through adolescence, to graduation, marriage and grandchildren and now retirement.

I'd hate to miss her column.

I once followed Kendy Bory Allen's column and her horse "Dollar," and was wondering if the picture of the little girl and her sheep on the front page of this week's paper was her daughter?

Not too many people would open their heart to give to others. I really appreciated that article and know the Lord will bless her for it.

Thanks for a clean farm paper. We'd miss it.

TWO DIFFERENT DAIRIES, ONE COMMON BELIEF:

F.M. BROWN'S SONS, INC. CARES ABOUT THEIR HERD PERFORMANCE, NOT JUST THEIR ORDER

Manheim, PA

In December 1990 when Rekua Dairy first bought their herd, the average was 19,500 lbs. By the time they made the switch to Brown's in April 1991, the average had dropped to 18,885 lbs. Twisted stomachs and breeding problems persisted. Questioning other area dairymen about where to go for help, F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. was repeatedly mentioned. Since the switch to Brown's, twisted stomachs are no longer a problem, breeding is back on track and, most importantly, production started to climb. With a feeding program consisting of corn silage, haylage, pasture and Brown's 16 Hi Milker and 24 Amino Plus-C topdress, Rekua Dairy maintains a 49.5 lb. total DM intake.

Ethtin Dairy
Manheim, PA

No. 8 is a 1st calf Pen-Col Abner daughter. Projected at 22,906 lbs. milk, she represents the quality in Ethtin's 31 cow herd. After having some production problems and not being able to make any improvements, the switch to Brown's was made. He found that an interest in the cows was shown, questions got answered, and a real knowledge of cows was shown by Brown's sales and nutrition staff. Cows like No. 8 show that paying attention to detail and an 80 lb. TMR have helped Ethtin Dairy back on the road to improved performance. A ration of corn silage. Brown's Flex-Formulated 40 Dairy with Morameal and a 24 Amino Plus-C topdress allows for a 48 lb. total DM intake.

DHIA ROLLING HERD AVERAGE

Aug. 1992	31 Cows	19,716 Milk	694 Fat	608 Protein	$1557	Income Over Feed Cost
Sept. 1991	29 Cows	19,155 Milk	628 Fat	595 Protein	$1299	Income Over Feed Cost
		+ 561	+ 66	+ 13	+$ 258

Rekua Dairy and Ethtin Dairy are pleased with the service provided by F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. When asked how they've benefited from choosing Brown's, the response at both farms was that Brown's is concerned with their herd's performance. Dave McCracken, Brown's Area Director for the Manheim area, always checks the DHIA papers and herd performance on each visit. Also, both farms appreciate having a salesman there who is willing and able to answer any questions and help with problems that may occur.

Rekua Dairy and Ethtin Dairy are glad Brown's cares about their herds.

Editor:

I read with interest the letter in your Oct. 17 issue by Charles F. Morris. Mr. Morris claims that animal-rights groups such as PETA, ALF and PCRM etc. are aligned with gun control groups such as Handgun Control Inc. I am a great believer in gun owner rights and fight any and all attempts to deny honest citizens their right to own firearms.

Several years ago I heard a similar accusation. I have since been monitoring animal-rights groups publications and even called them to ask in a very neutral way about their gun controls tance. The response has always been that they carry no opinion either way on the subject. Nor have I seen any type of gun control propaganda in any of their publications.

As for the question of vegetarianism. What's wrong with vegetarians? They support the farmers in this country. The problem falls within the belief that vegetarians eat only tofu and bean sprouts. This is not necessarily true. There are several different types of vegetarians. Most continue to eat dairy and egg products. The people who do not eat any type of animal product are vegantarians, and they are a tiny minority, in a group of people who make up less than 10% of the entire population. Also most vegetarians buy their fruits and vegetables from the local family farmer. One of the main reasons they do this is because they want to see the family farmers survive rather than see the farms turned into housing developments or strip malls.

Editor:

I just finished reading the October 10 issue of Lancaster Farming. Imagine my surprise when I reached page A28 and saw myself identified as the "past president, PFY".

I would like to assure you that I am still very much the leader of our statewide organization. In fact, I'm not even up for re-election until November 1993! I would very much appreciate an opportunity to meet with you and talk about some of the projects and activities we have going, and the direction in which Farmers Union is headed in Pennsylvania. May I buy you lunch sometime?

While I'm writing, I would also like to point out that my attendance in Lackawanna County was by invitation of Senator Specter, who expressed an interest in hearing our concerns with major agriculture issues. My visit was in no way connected with the formation of the Farmers For Specter committee. I'm a little concerned that the placement of the picture in the article might lead someone to believe that I was taking part in a partisan activity on behalf of the Farmers Union, which is a non-poartisan organization.

Thanks for the chance to clarify.

We Take Customer Satisfaction Personally

For the Bollinger family, life has resumed to a bit of normalcy since a CATSCAN shows that Glenn's brain tumor has disappeared. But each member of the family says that the experience has changed them forever. From left: Doug, 13; Danny, 8; Glenn, Dawn, and Gwenda, 10.

Bollinger Faces Death, Radiation Gets A Second-Chance At Life

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Faintly, as if from far away, Glenn Bollinger heard a voice calling him, "Glenn, Glenn, what's the matter?"

Then everything went black.

The next thing that Glenn remembers, he was lying in an ambulance.

"What am I doing in here?" he asked the paramedics.

It was April 9, 1992. That morning, Glenn, who owns G & D Farm Equipment in Manheim, had responded to a service call when a Washington Boro farmer needed two diesel tractors repaired.

Glenn was accustomed to hard work and long hours. He and his wife, Dawn, had married in 1976, worked on his father's Lebanon County dairy farm with 600 acres and 100 plus cows, and operated a custom combine service and an equipment repair shop. In 1983, they moved to Manheim to open up an equipment repair shop that quickly expanded into a dealership for White New Idea, Kewanee, and several lawn equipment companies.

Most days Glenn worked from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. He said, "I liked hard work. I was a pusher. I felt great. I was hardly ever sick for a day in my life."

Neither had he felt any symptoms of illness on that April day. When he awakened in the ambulance, he was instantly alert with no signs that he had just suffered a violent seizure.

Glenn told the paramedics that he must have inhaled too much diesel smoke while repairing the tractors. Doctors suspected he might have an aneurysm. They ordered a CATSCAN.

Glenn and his wife were not prepared when doctors told him that it looked like a brain tumor.

"When you hear those words, it's like a feeling of emptiness hits you," Glenn said. "You ask, 'Why me? What did I do to deserve this?'"

The seizure occurred Thursday evening. Biopsy surgery was scheduled for Monday at 1 p.m.

"It was really scary to think of doctors drilling a hole in my skull to get a piece from my brain," Glenn said.

During the weekend, friends and family gathered and spoke in hushed tones. The Bollingers' children, Doug, 13; Gwenda, 10; and Danny, 8; were stunned.

"I thought my daddy was going to die," 8-year-old Danny said. "My sister was crying, and I was crying and crying, but Doug told us to stop crying."

Doug said, "I was scared, but I didn't believe he was going to die. I thought we just got to pray and have trust."

"I was scared to go into the hospital," Gwenda said, "because I didn't know what I was going to say to him."

The problem of what to say became even more difficult when the surgeon finished operating at 4:30 p.m. that Monday and reported the findings of the biopsy.

Dawn recalls the surgeon saying, "Your husband has a tumor the size of an egg. It is in the low stages of cancer."

"I think I went into shock," Dawn said. "I couldn't think of anything to ask the doctor."

More difficult was the doctor's instructions that Dawn needed to go immediately into the recovery room to see her husband. She was told to tell him that everything was fine. Doctors planned to tell Glen about the cancer the next day.

Dawn went into the recovery room and dutifully repeated the doctor's orders that "everything was fine."

Glenn's relief was shortlived. When he found out that the tumor was cancerous, he said, "I felt like I had no hope. Why even try to fight it?"

Doctors said that they could not risk operating because it may cause paralysis or loss of vision or speech. Radiation treatments were scheduled.

It took several weeks to prepare for the radiation treatments. First lines were etched on his head and forehead to guide the laser beam. A cradle needed to be formed to keep Glenn's shoulders and head in the same position so that the radiation was aimed at the same spot each day.

Radiation treatment commenced five days a week for six weeks.

"I didn't get sick, but I felt so tired," Glenn said.

He also fought depression. "It's hard to get hold of feelings and emotions. It takes a while to work through everything. I felt like I was hit between the eyes with a sledge hammer and needed to reevaluate things. That I was traveling full speed down the road, turned on a dime and was headed back the other direction."

When Glenn's hair began to fall out, he was devastated.

His son Doug consoled him by saying, "What's hair if it brings health back?"

Doctors predicted Glenn would gain 50 to 60 pounds from the medication.

"Not this guy," said Glenn who pushed himself away from the table and refused to eat much.

Doctors thought it probably wasn't the best that Glenn limited his food intake, but he is proud that he gained only 18 pounds, which he lost after radiation treatments ended in September.

During the treatments, the family was grateful for the many people who provided transportation for the treatments because Glenn was not allowed to drive. Friends and family often cared for the children. Each child also accompanied their father at least once to watch the procedure.

In the shop, the eight employees carried on the daily business. The Bollingers praise their employees and the customers who were considerate and helpful during Glenn's recuperation.

The full dosage of treatments was given to Glenn, who was told that he could not be given any more treatments for 10 to 15 years.

But enduring the radiation was worth it. A recent CATSCAN showed no signs of a tumor, only scar tissue.

"We're praising the Lord and the doctors for that," Glenn said. "It's like a miracle. The doctors thought it would take a longer time until the tumor was erradicated."

Although given a clean bill of health, the experience has changed the Bollingers.

"I've been given a second chance at life. I'm more conscious of how people feel. I'm more compassionate towards hurting people — before I couldn't identify with them," Glenn said. His wife agreed that the experience has changed her in the same respect.

The children say that they have also changed. The oldest son said, "I have more trust in God in my life than I had before."

Gwenda said, "It makes me appreciate my parents more."

Glen has resumed work in his business. But his hours are now 7

Homestead Notes

OUR MAN FOR PRESIDENT

President Bush talks our language

Don't count on much help or understanding from the White House if Bill Clinton and Al Gore win November 3rd.

Clinton shows us why he's called "Slick Willie" by waffling on every major farm issue.

And in his book, "Earth in the Balance", running mate Al Gore accuses farmers of poisoning the soil, "stripmining" the land and "bulldozing the Garden of Eden". He also would ban fertilizers and pesticides.

Let's look at the record:

Wetlands. Bush has eased wetlands regulations on land presently cropped or previously converted from wetlands. Clinton was for farmer-friendly regulations in 1990, then came out against them in 1991.

Free Trade. Clinton endorsed Bush's North American Free Trade Agreement that opens huge new farm markets for U.S. farmers. Then to win endorsement of Big Labor, Clinton had second thoughts about the agreement. Then third thoughts. And fourth.

Capital Gains. It is a farm issue. A farmer gets whacked with a 28% capital gains tax everytime he sells land, timber or breeding stock held three or more years.

President Bush says farmers are over taxed and over regulated. And he's doing something about it. Making federal regs more farmer friendly, protecting property rights, seeking tax cuts and opening up new farm markets here and abroad.

Bush asked Congress to cut capital gains tax in half three straight years. Demos laughed in his face. Clinton also flip flops here. First being for a capital gains tax cut, then calling it "a tax break for the rich."

Property Rights. Bush agreed with the landmark Supreme Court decision on an environmental ruling against a Southern landowner. Government must pay, court said.

No one's sure about "Slick Willie" on this one. But in his book Gore puts wetlands and endangered species ahead of private property rights.

Health Insurance. Bush would give farmers and self employeds 100% deduction. Same as corporations.

Clinton calls for a 7% mandatory payroll tax for the operator or any employee not insured. This to pay national health insurance.

Is there really a choice? We need Bush. Now more than ever.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Stretching the truth is not a thing I normally try to practice.

While the old "honesty is the best policy" may be a cliche, it keeps life simpler for those of use whose memories don't always retain every fact, let alone keep track of made-up details.

But I had just realized that a statement fresh out of my mouth wasn't all that factual. It had been uttered in reply to the observation of a friend who, on a gorgeous day like the one we were enjoying, observed how she envied our line of work, where one could be outside.

"Except," I sort of sighed in answer, "That I've been stuck at the desk all day."

Heading back home from the local post office where this exchange had taken place, I pondered what I'd hastily declared. Indeed, preparing the handful of mail deposited in the box had taken what felt like endless hours at the desk, while outside the sun beckoned on this brisk, beautiful, breezy day.

As usual, the day had begun with some two hours of feeding chores, tending the bottle babies and the younger heifers, moving supplies of feed bags and hay bales, pitching newspaper bedding into group pens and making sure several dozen bawling black and white muzzles had plenty of feed, hay and water until the same procedure would be rerun that evening.

Of course, a few moments had been stolen out to cuddle Butch, the affectionate and playful tiger kitten which turned up at the garage one morning weeks ago. And a neighbor stopped by for a quick chat between her morning errands.

Information on a few new calves waited to be added to the calf book and eartags prepared for them. But inside the book were a couple of registration forms on calves about to pass the lowest-rate registry age. They needed to be sketched and mailed - immediately.

But first, the chicken and rice casserole planned for lunch had to be assembled and put in the oven. And one load of laundry relocated to the dryer to make way for the next pile waiting on the basement floor.

Clipboard in hand, I played tag with the four calves to be sketched. The last was nearly finished when a playful heifer nudged the clipboard, dumping the paperwork onto the bedding pack. Wipe-off with wet paper towels eventually reduced most of the "spots" to pale smudge marks - fading some of the sketch lines as well.

Hungry silo fillers filed in for lunch before I'd made much of a dent in the desk chores. Clean-up, a couple of phone calls and laundry hung on the line eventually gave way to an uninterrupted 90 minutes of paperwork.

But soon the cows would file in the barn for afternoon milking, meaning the post office trip had best be made despite several unfinished paperwork items still needing attention. And I did at least remember to turn off the burner under the bean soup simmering for serve-yourself-supper before making the short trip to the nearest late-day mail pickup box.

Wash begged to be taken down from the line before the pokeberry-eating birds decorated it in unwanted shades of purple. And a quick trip to the garden yielded a handful of turnips to share, two half-hearted tomatoes and a fat head of crisp, white cauliflower.

Milking chores, another round of evening calf feeding (and another moment stolen to snuggle the cat) and soon a brilliant-orange moon was inching up over the dark silhouette of the distant woodlot.

From the far side of the contoured hill beyond the house, a muted, steady roar marked the passage of The Farmer, chiseling the harvested cornfields for a final planting of barley.

At the barn office desk, the new calves were finally given identity in the calf book and eartags marked. More paperwork waited in a stack at the desk in the house. But first, Solomon begged for a few minutes of playing ball in the moonlight.

Paperwork details, seemingly endless, are an increasing, necessary and unavoidable part of modern farm living.

But "stuck at the desk?"

Vision Problems Difficult To Diagnose

RUTGERS (Camden Co.) — When was the last time your child's eyes were checked by an eye care professional? Children may pass a school eye test but still have vision disorders.

The Maerican Optometric Association states that about 16 percent of children 5-12 years old have vision problems that can affect their ability to read and learn. Many school-age children may be inaccurately labeled as slow and unable to keep up with their classmates due to correctable, but undetected, vision problems.

A host of difficulties such as remembering what is read, confusing similar words, and even frequent daydreaming all may be vision related. Other signs of vision difficulties include:

* Dislike and avoidance of close work
* Turning or tilting the head to one side
* Closing one eye
* Trouble finishing timed written assignments
* Placing the head close to a book or desk when reading
* Excessive blinking or rubbing eyes
* Losing place while reading
* Complaints of headache, nausea and dizziness

Poor visions in elementary school is especially damaging because it interferes with learning the basics. Make sure your child has the benefit of good eyesight.

Bollinger Faces

Glenn said that his biggest consolation when he becomes discouraged is remembering a moment in the operating room.

"I was on the operating table. The jig was in place for them to cut and drill when I asked to talk to the doctor. I told him, 'It's between you and the Lord now.'"

Glenn swallowed hard as he recalled that moment and his voice broke. "At that moment, I felt such a sense of peace — it's indescribable. It's like I faced death head on and I wasn't a bit afraid.

"Now, whenever I feel discouraged, whenever I remember that the doctors say the tumor might return in 10 to 15 years, I think of that moment on the operating table. It's like a springboard that encourages me to keep going no matter what happens."

a.m. to 5 p.m. "I'm really tired at the end of the day. My mind wants to do things, but my body doesn't have the strength."

Glenn said, "I certainly intend to keep providing quality service and parts just like I did before, but working long hours are no longer a priority."

The family has gone on several day trips to vacation spots, but most enjoyable Glenn said, "I like to sit on the front porch and kick up my heels."

Side effects from the experience sometimes causes him to feel depressed. The doctor told Glenn that it's going to take time. It's like being six foot under and being brought back to life.

Dear Golden Pride·

I have suffered with various heart problems and high blood pressure for the past 15 years, needing hospitalization 13 times! I was also diagnosed as a diabetic 3 years ago

Two and one-half years ago, I suffered a severe attack of angina .. was rushed to the Coronary Care Unit with an oncoming heart attack Since I was treated in time, the heart attack was averted. However, because of my medical history, my Cardiologist wanted to perform a Cardiac Catheterization He informed me of the risks and left the decision up to me.. I consented because I did not want to live the rest of my life as an invalid . During the catheterization, I had a brain stem stroke which affected my vision and my walking It also caused me to have excruciating vascular headaches

Since I have been taking the Formulas for Health (1,2,3 & 6), my headaches have almost disappeared My blood pressure is stabilizing, my vision has improved, and I don't have to walk with a cane while I'm at home. I can even drive for short distances. All my heart medicines have been reduced and I am completely off my diabetic medicines but still on a strict diabetic diet I feel so much stronger and better than anyone thought possible as soon after suffering from a stroke!

I'm a great believer that God works in mysterious ways through people to reach others I'm forever grateful to (Golden Pride distributors) for introducing me to these wonderful products I feel confident that I will continue to improve.

Pizza, Pasta, And More

When you're looking for a party theme, think pasta or pizza. The robust flavor and simplicity is a perfect match for today's casual, impromptu entertaining style.

Pizza and pasta have been popular with American cooks for generations, but in recent years, a new wave of interest has been created.

One reason for the heightened popularity is a greater availability of step-saving products that deftly translate flavor without requiring hours of slaving over a hot stove while the sauce simmers. Already shredded cheeses also prove to be timesavers when making pizza and pasta.

And, don't forget to try new varieties of pizza, such as shrimp, vegetable or fruit.

Entertain with flair — try these recipes.

PIZZA DOUGH

2 cups pastry flour
⅓ cup oil
⅔ cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tepspoon salt

Combine ingredients and knead a few seconds. Spread dough on cookie sheet or pizza pan. Top with pizza sauce and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 minutes.

Rebecca Zook
Myerstown

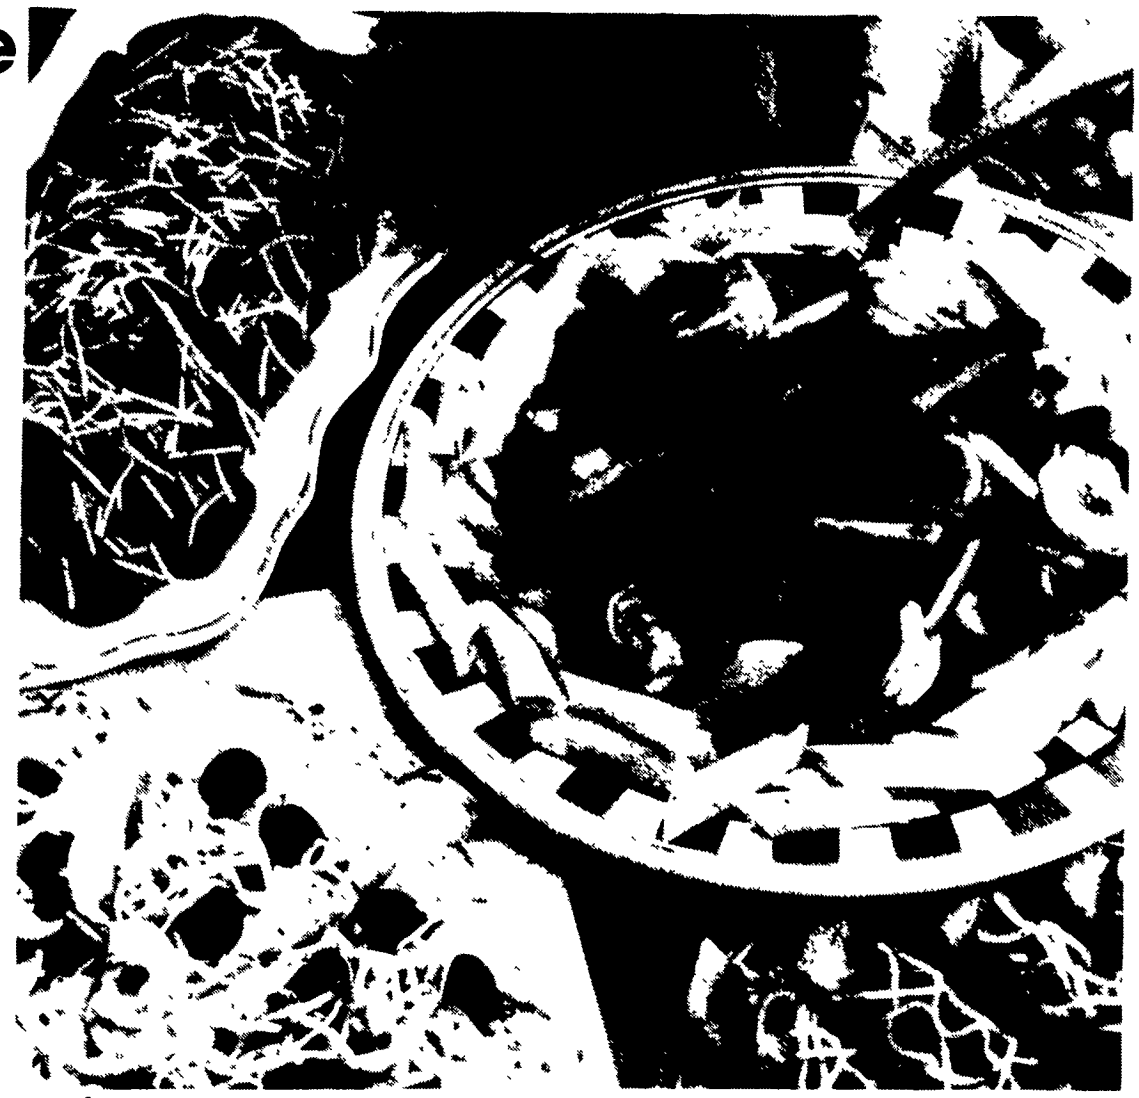
PIZZA

1 pizza shell (Boboli is best)
1 container spaghetti/pizza sauce
Onion, green pepper, mushrooms
Mozzarella, Parmesan or pizza cheese
Pepperoni or sausage, cooked
Garlic powder
Oregano
Basil

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Heat pizza shell without filling on pizza pan or cookie sheet for 5 to 8 minutes. Remove from oven. Spread layer of sauce and add your favorite spices. Heat 3 to 5 minutes. Clean and chop vegetables — these can be partially cooked in the microwave for 1 to 2 minutes. Drain vegetables and place on pizza. Heat 3 to 5 minutes. Sprinkle cheeses on top and add pepperoni or sausage. Heat 3 to 5 minutes or until cheese is melted.

Contributor writes: We live in the country where there is no pizza delivery. We keep the large pizza shells in the refrigerator. The small shells fit easier in the freezer and in the toaster oven. The pizzas are thick enough that cooking this way makes sure the crust is well done and not soggy.

Sue Pardo



A party with pasta and pizza can be easy and fun by using ready-made sauces and shredded cheese.

HEALTHY LASAGNA

1 box uncooked regular or whole wheat lasagna noodles
1 package thawed and drained spinach
1 container small curd cottage cheese
1 egg, beaten
1 package skim mozzarella cheese, shredded
1 small can mushroom pieces (or fresh)
1 container favorite spaghetti sauce
Parmesan/Romano cheese, grated

In a 13x9-inch pan, coat bottom of pan with light layer of spaghetti sauce. Layer 1 layer of noodles on bottom. Mix egg with cottage cheese. Place layer of mixture on noodles. Layer well drained spinach, mushrooms, sauce, and mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers until pan is almost full. End with noodles on top. Cover with sauce.

Cook in microwave for 30 minutes at 50 percent power. Check to see if noodles are soft.

Or bake in 350 degree oven for 45 to 60 minutes. Sprinkle parmesan/Romano cheese on top.

¼ pound Parmesan cheese, grated

Transfer garlic and pepper to large skillet. Add olive oil and cook over low heat about 3 minutes. Add all the broccoli. Cook, covered, over medium heat about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add butter and chicken stock. Simmer, uncovered, until liquid reduces by half, about 10 minutes. Transfer to bowl; cover.

'LITE' LASAGNA-WRAPPED SALAD

1½ cups frozen cut green beans
9 green lasagna noodles
¼ cup calorie-reduced creamy Italian salad dressing
3-ounce package Neufchatel cheese, softened
3 tablespoons crumbled Blue cheese
12-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained
1½ cups snipped fresh bean sprouts
1 cup shredded lite American cheese
¾ cup low-fat cream-style cottage cheese, drained
1 green onion, finely chopped
2 small tomatoes, thinly sliced
⅓ cup calorie-reduced mayonnaise

On October 27, Mike Harrold will be installed as the newly-elected president of Lancaster County Poultry Association. Mike and his wife, Betsy, moved from North Carolina into the county in 1989.

With that move, Betsy brought along a generous dosage of southern hospitality that she lavishes on guests who rave about her southern cooking.

Her cooking skills complement her husband's promotion of poultry products. Her poultry specialties include egg rolls, smoked turkey breast, turkey ham, chicken salad, hot wings, and steaming Brunswick Stew.

"Before I moved to Lancaster County, I had never heard of chicken corn soup or red beet eggs," said Betsy. In her area, Brunswick stew, which uses chicken stock, is similar in popularity to the chicken corn soup of this area.

To warm up chilly fall days, try this Brunswick Stew from Betsy's kitchen.

And don't forget to read the feature story about the Harrolds, which starts on page A1.

BRUNSWICK STEW

3 pound fryer
2 medium onions
2½ pounds potatoes
Salt and pepper
1 pound frozen lima beans
1 pound frozen shoepeg corn
1 quart crushed tomatoes
Red pepper, to taste

Boil chicken and onions together in water for 40 minutes. Take out chicken and cut in pieces. Add potatoes, cook 15 minutes after broth boils. Add beans, simmer on high for 15 minutes. Add chicken and tomatoes. Bring to a boil and stir. Simmer ½ hour. Add corn, salt, and pepper. Turn off, let set overnight and freeze in portions desired.

His 'N' Her Business Brightens Life At Home

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

McCLURE (Snyder Co.) — Their business card says "Custom Furniture and Children's Furniture," but that's only a small part of the story. Because Robert and Norma Carper of McClure couldn't possibly list all the different types of wood and handcraft items they sell on one small business card.

The card isn't big enough to mention the wooden toys, knick-knack cupboards, cedar chests, decorated cheese boxes, jelly cupboards, and other wooden items. Nor could it list quilted wall hangings, quilted feedbags, stuffed toys, woven baskets, pieced pillows, pierced lampshades, tote bags, and more.

Suggesting "his" and "her" business cards wouldn't work either. The Carpers don't operate that way.

"We've always worked together on the farm and still work together," Mrs. Carper says.

Mrs. Carper stains and finishes the furniture her husband makes. They also fill requests, make furniture for their grown children, and supply a small shop, Carpers Wood and Craft Shop, for drive-by customers.

The Carpers moved from Lancaster County in 1958 when they bought a Snyder County dairy farm. They raised four children, then retired from farming 11 years ago. Now, with 12 grandchildren, the Carpers make their grandchildren's favorite toys and furniture.

"My husband enjoys seeing the children's faces light up when he makes something for them," Mrs. Carper says.

Mrs. Carper has always enjoyed handicrafts. But raising four children on a dairy farm left little time for crafts. Now, half of their home is filled with furniture they made themselves, including a favorite oak corner cupboard. It matches the oak moulding that outlines the living room.

Their home has a pierced lampshade in every room, pieced and "cheaters" cloth pillows throughout, and baskets that Mrs. Carper made with either padded or painted tops.

She calls these beautiful additions to a home "grace notes" — those little extra somethings that brighten life at home.

(Turn to Page B15)

Mrs. Carper started quilting muslin feedbags about four years ago. She has a Glidden Company feedbag from Chicago, a certified alfalfa bag, and a timothy Farm Bureau Co-op bag. In the background is an oak corner cupboard made by her husband.

The Carpers stand behind a jelly cupboard Mr. Carper made and plans to donate to the auction benefitting the Juniata Mennonite School. In previous years, quilted feedbags have brought up to $100.

½ teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Arrange cooked sweet potatoes, cut in half lengthwise or leave whole if preferred. Put in greased baking dish.

On top crust, add 2 to 3 bananas, sliced, and 16-ounce can pineapple chunks. Cover with pudding mixture. Cover each piece of fruit. Top with whipped topping. If desired, garnish with almond slices or maraschino cherries (cherries contain sugar and nuts are high in fat and calories). Refrigerate and serve.

¼ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
¾ cup thick applesauce
1½ teaspoons vanilla
½ cup sour milk or buttermilk

Yield: about 9 pints. Wear rubber gloves when handling hot peppers or wash hands thoroughly with soap and water before touching face.

Wash peppers. If small peppers are left whole, slash 2 to 4 slits in each. Quarter large peppers. Blanch in boiling water or blister in order to peel. Cool and peel off skin. Flatten small peppers. Fill jars, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Combine and heat other ingredients to boiling and simmer 10 minutes. Remove garlic. Add hot pickling solution over peppers, leaving ½ -inch headspace. 8-ounce can tomato sauce
6-ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon basil leaves
½ teaspoon oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon minced fresh garlic

Topping:
Shredded mozzarella cheese
Sliced, pitted rip olives
Fresh mushrooms
Sliced pepperoni
Italian sausage
Onions

Heat oven to 425 degrees. In 10-inch ovenproof skillet, melt butter in oven. Meanwhile in medium bowl, stir together all crust ingredients except milk. Stir in milk, just until moistened. On lightly floured surface, knead dough until smooth (1 minute). Press dough on bottom and halfway up sides of skillet with melted butter. Bake for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, in small bowl, stir together all sauce ingredients. Spread tomato sauce over partially baked crust.

Cover with toppings of your choice. Return to oven; continue baking for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through. Tip: You may use your own favorite or commercial sauce.

This recipe makes enough sauce for 2 pizzas.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Does your day-to-day schedule always run smoothly or do you sometimes have too many things to do on the same day?

Ordinarily one is kept busy with regular chores like cooking, cleaning, laundry, and outdoor tasks. But once in a while, there are three or four things all scheduled for the same day and you must pick and choose.

A public auction that I wanted to attend fell on the same day as a travelogue that I had already bought tickets for. Could I manage to squeeze in both of them? Then in the evening of the same day, two organizations that we belong to had their programs. You see, one group had changed their regular meeting night.

So when our son cancelled his trip from Virginia, with his family, to visit us that same day it was almost a relief. On top of all this activity, I got a phone call from a couple who live in Texas and they said they would like to visit us as they were in Lancaster County.

We invited them to come the following day for a Sunday dinner. The lady has been doing research on the Weidler family and we met her because our farm is the original homestead.

This has been a good year for black walnuts and my husband has hulled quite a few of them. Our friends from Morgantown will come again to pick up some of them. They are always kind enough to share some of the nutmeats with us. I do seem to use a lot of nuts in baking both cakes and cookies. They can easily be stored in the freezer for a year.

Trail Ride Benefit

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Horses and riders from across Central Pennsylvania are getting ready for the annual Trail Ride for the Disabled. The Lancaster County 4-H Therapeutic Riding Program will sponsor a fund-raising Trail Ride on Sunday, October 25, rain or shine, beginning at 11 A.M. sharp. Riders must transport their own horses to Lower Hopewell Horse Center north of Lititz for the 15 mile ride. The guided ride follows a marked trail through the scenic Cornwall Fire Tower area of northern Lancaster County.

Riders are encouraged to collect sponsorships per mile ridden. All proceeds benefit the 4-H Therapeutic Riding Program which enables children and adults with disabilities to experience the thrill of being on horseback, while at the same time enjoy a unique kind of physical therapy.

Riders can register ahead of time for the Trail Ride by contacting Ellie Turnbull at 626-7933. If a rider has no sponsors, there is an $8 fee. The ride includes a light breakfast, snacks, and a hot meal upon return.

Cook's Question

Bread And Butter Pickles

25 medium-sized pickling cucumbers
12 onions
½ cup pickling salt
3 cups cider vinegar
4 cups sugar
2 teaspoons white mustard seed
1 teaspoon celery seed
2 teaspoons turmeric
2 tablespoons pickling spice

Slice the cucumbers and onions. Add the salt. Cover with ice water and soak for 3 hours.

Combine in preserving kettle; sugar, vinegar, mustard seed, celery seed, turmeric, and pickling spice. Bring to a boil. Strain cucumbers and add to boiling mixture. Boil until transparent, then put into jars and seal. Add liquid before sealing. Makes about 10 pints.

Sweet Pickles

Step 1: Pack 4- or 5-inch pickles, washed, into ½ -gallon jar. Add 2 tablespoons salt, 1½ tablespoons mixed pickling spice, 1 rounded teaspoon alum, and 2 cups vinegar. Finish filling jar with cold water. Seal by just putting lid on and setting aside.

Step 2: Ready to use in 2 weeks or up to 1 year. When ready to use, drain off liquid, wash and chunk (can slice but I prefer chunk). Cover with 4 cups sugar.

Let stand at room temperature until sugar makes its own liquid. Stir occassionally. Put in a jar and store in refrigerator.

Hints: Pickles will appear soft but use anyway they will firm up. Recipe is per jar. Put date on jar lid.

Fall Nature Walk

Fall is a good time for a family walk. If you live where you can walk in the woods or fields, you can gather dried weeds, interesting pods, and pieces of bark. Even in the city you can find differently shaped leaves, acorns, and other signs of fall. Bring your treasures home and set up an arrangement to enjoy.

Take along baskets or bags to collect interesting things. Be on the lookout for possible hazards such as poison ivy, hidden rocks, or stumps. Look at the different kinds of seeds and the way they are carried from place to place by the wind and on people's clothes. You might be lucky enough to see a squirrel hiding nuts for the winter, too.

Take A Nature Smell Walk

Children are born fully equipped with a set of "natural tools," the senses of sound, touch, sight, taste, and smell. These tools enable them to explore and discover the world of which they are a part.

Try your powers of smell by taking a nature smell walk. Blindfold one member of the family and guide her on a smelling walk. Have the blindfolded person guess what she is smelling. Flowers, leaves, fruit trees, pine trees, dirt, animals, trash items, cement, and fences are all good items to have your child smell. If you have a garden, try onions, parsley, mint, tomatoes, and other garden vegetables or the leaves of their plants.

Terrarium Garden

You can grow a pretty little garden in a fish bowl, tank, jar, or other container. It needs hardly any water. The covered bowl keeps plants moist and growing nicely.

Materials:
- jar or other container
- gravel or pepples
- a few pieces of charcoal
- soil
- little plants (small ferns, ivy, mosses, wintergreen, hepatica)

Directions:

In the bottom of the jar, place a layer of pebbles or gravel. Add a few pieces of charcoal. Add about two inces of soil and a little water. Now plant your plants. Use a pencil or stick to firm the soil about the roots. Then water with a mister or sprinkle a little. Place near a window, but not in direct sunlight. Cover with plastic or a lid, but uncover occasionally to let a fresh supply of air into the terrarium.

A Word To Parents

The suggested activities on this page are taken from a booklet called Family Time, which is published four times a year. The booklets are published for different age groups such as, 2 to 3, 4 to 6; and 7 to 8. If you enjoy these activities, you'll want to learn about the many other ideas published in the booklet. Pick up a free copy of Family Time at your county Extension office.

Remember, members of a strong family see themselves as a vital part of the family. This feeling of being important in and to the family doesn't just happen — it develops.

Parents who adopt Family Time and do the activities regularly are helping each member feel important.

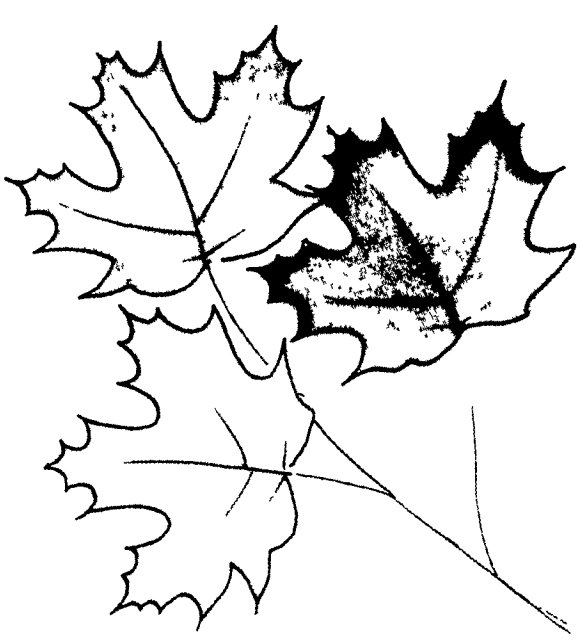
Each member of the strong family sees his family as the most important group he is part of. Family Time helps the family learn together. Exploring and learning in an atmosphere filled with parental love is the finest climate for learning. Most of the greatest lessons the child will learn and use for the rest of his life are taught by loving parents. parents also learn as they work with their child and see him grow and develop.

Sketching and Photographing Animals

Your pet is a readily available model for sketching or photography. Dogs, cats, and other pets can assume 99 different poses. Sometime or other you have probaly photographed or drawn a picture of your pet or a friend's.

Patience is a virtue while waiting for your subject animal to assume just the pose you want. You will have to discover, for example, where and when a rabbit likes to eat and then be ready and waiting for him if you want to catch him nibbling a leaf.

Put together an album of your animal pictures to share with others.



Glycerin Leaves

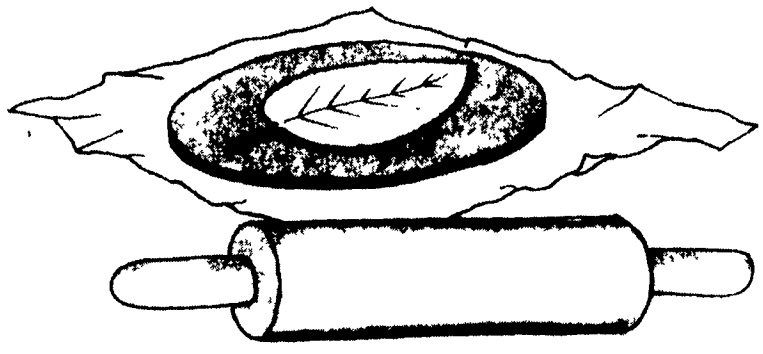
Materials:
- glycerin (buy at a drug store)
- small branch leaves (green or just changed colors)
- newspaper
- hammer
- large jar

Directions:

Place the branch on several layers of newspaper. With a hammer, tap the end of the stem until it is slightly crushed.

In the jar, mix one part glycerin to two parts water. Place the pounded end of the branch into the glycerin mixture for two weeks. By that time, the leaves will be thicker to the touch, their color will have changed, and they will not fade or disintegrate.

Clay Leaf Prints



Materials:
- self-drying clay
- rolling pin
- aluminum foil
- leaves

Directions:

Using a rolling pin, flatten a lump of clay on a piece of foil. Lay a leaf on the clay, and roll over it with the rolling pin. Remove the leaf and let the clay dry. Paint the clay with tempera if desired.

Wool Fashions Modeled At Contest

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (SOMERSET CO.) — The Ramada Inn's Tropical Courtyard was the setting for the District IV Make It Yourself With Wool contest this year. Fourteen participants represented the seven counties in District IV, which, although they added up to fewer registrations than last year, provided guests with a modeling display of some terrific outfits.

Peggy Black of Boswell, an experienced 4-H sewing instructor, created a dark blue, wool trouser and jacket combo patterned with a glitzy-looking gold accent that took first place in the adult division.

Black said she modernized the ancient art of Sashiko embroidery on the jacket using couched, gold lame' ribbon, invisible thread, and gold beads for the center of the flowers.

All this effort by Black came after looking in her own clothes closet and telling herself (according to her own commentary that she had enough clothes for this lifetime and the next.

Other adult winners were Ruth Goddard, second place and Rose Svonavec, third.

In the senior division, Jodell Rhoads of Berlin had the winning outfit, not just in the opinion of the four judges, but, also in the eyes of her companions who voted it the best-liked garment.

Rhoads, using the wool fibers she'd gotten at last year's contest, constructed a two-piece suit. A plaid skirt of teal-fuchsia was topped by a smartly appliqued, teal green jacket. She added a fuchsia blouse and hosiery then topped her head with a pert fuchsia-colored hat accented by a teal band.

Just last year, Rhoads' garment in the Make It Yourself With Wool contest was a Pennsylvania state winner before placing her a second runner-up in the national event.

Preparing for a career in accounting management, Rhoads is enrolled in the Institute of Computer Management located in Pittsburgh.

Jill Clites of Berlin placed second in the senior category. She modeled a jade green jump suit or split culotte and black paisley top with jade green trim on the short sleeves.

Julie Sechler in a wool jumper was first place winner in the preteen category. Junior first place went to Jennifer Black for a mohair coat and wool dress. A second place tie in the junior was between Debbie Black and Erica Walker.

Other participants having their wool garments judged during the morning were Jennifer Knisely, Corby Svonavec, Delaine Swearman, Laura Waltermire, and Jenna Svonavec.

Judging the garments were Lisa Hoxie, Baltimore, former state winner; Debbie Scheffel, Somerset, RD, and Cindy Walker and Marcia Wysocki, both from Shanksville. They observed current fashion, coordination to pattern, garments suitability to contestant, and poise, presentation and skill.

One winner in each category will advance to the state contest coming up on October 31. It will also be held in Somerset this year, at the Ramada Inn.

Promoting the beauty and versatility of wool is the purpose of Make It Yourself With Wool. The material is incomparable fabric or yarn for sewing, knitting, or crocheting garments of high fashion and style. There are specialty sources of wool fibers that may also be used in any amount in the contest entries. These include mohair, cashmere, alpaca, camel, llama and vicuna.

Students Work To Feed Hungry

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — When your stomach is full, it is difficult to feel the pangs of hunger.

But that does not mean that students at Hempfield High and Junior High are not concerned that two-thirds of the world go to bed hungry.

To help provide food for the hungry, students donated food items on World Food Day, which is a worldwide event designed to increase awareness, understanding and informed, year-around, long-term action on the complex issues of food security for all.

With the help of Barbara Shenk, home economist supervisor at the high school, the student council organized the event. Abbie Hinkle and Stephanie Millhouse, student council members, were pleased with the response.

Stephanie said, "The student council likes to have projects that benefit others. This sounded like a good cause and we wanted to help."

According to Abbie, students were requested to bring in at least one item. But some, like Bobbi Meyers, a junior, brought in much more. Bobbi donated 800 servings of freeze-dried soup. She credits her parents' employer, Nissin Foods USA Co. Inc., with providing the soup when she asked for their help.

Abbie believes that the majority of students contributed to the week-long project.

"It's the second year that I helped with the project," Stephanie said. "I think there was more support this year."

The first World Food Day was in 1981 and is observed by 150 nations every October 16. The purpose is to show that each person who cares — and becomes involved — helps build a more food-secure world. A society that guarantees the basis of life — food — is offering hope, to all, that other blessings of peace and justice are attainable as well.

The donated food items were given to Lancaster County Council of Churches Food Bank in East Petersburg, which distribute it to the needy in the community.

The students in the homeroom that brought in the most food received free passes to the Hempfield Homecoming Football Game and were treated to a party sponsored by Domino's Pizza, Turkey Hill, and McDonald's of Centerville.

Students at Hempfield High School collected more than 10,500 food items in observance of World Food Day. Stephanie Millhouse, left, and Abbie Hinkle hold a banner promoting the event while Bobbi Myers, seated, displays one of the 800 cartons of soup she asked her parents' employer to donate.

PLANS FOR A SAFE HALLOWEEN

Don't take any chances. Protect your children from possible disaster this Halloween by making sure their costumes are treated with a flame retardant finish.

A flimsy costume can catch fire instantly if it comes too near an open flame. Costumes which are not purchased with a flame-retardant finish or made from fabric that has not had a flame retardant-finish should be given a home treatment.

For 100 percent cotton fabrics, mix seven ounces of borax, three ounces of boric acid and two quarts of hot water. The solution may gel as it cools, but if this happens merely reheat it. Dip the costume into the solution and then air dry.

You can also spray on the treatment. Make sure, however, that the fabric is completely saturated with the solution or it will not be effective. Press costume with a warm, not hot, iron when partially dry.

To treat rayon or easy-care cottons, dissolve 12 ounces of diammonium phosphate in two quarts of water and stir the mixture until it is clear. Dip dry fabric into the solution and press it with a warm iron when the fabric is almost dry. You may purchase these chemicals at most drug stores.

Remember this treatment is not permanent and needs to be repeated every year after washing the costume. The costume is not made completely fireproof by this treatment. It will still char and crumble when exposed to fire.

Despite nutritionists' recommendations to the contrary, candy is still the treat that is most commonly given to neighborhood ghosts and goblins. And that can cause problems for parents who prefer a no-candy-in-the-house rule.

Candymakers depend on Halloween for a large portion of their yearly sales, partly because—as one industry spokesman says—"Halloween is one time of year when parents who might otherwise not allow their children to eat candy make an exception.

Making that kind of exception can help children adjust to reality. Concerned parents cannot protect their children from candy forever. You can use the Halloween treat bag to teach your youngsters the meaning of "treat" as something to enjoy occasionally.

Learning moderation through self-control and rationing is an important part of practicing good nutrition. Eating a variety of foods is a good general dietary guideline, but for some foods, such as high-fat and/or high-sugar candy, the emphasis should definitely be on little.

With young children, access to the treat bag can be limited by putting it out of their sight and reach, allowing them to choose perhaps one item after the evening meal.

Another thing you can do as parents is make sure the treats you give also reflect your nutritional values. Some alternatives to the traditional candy treat include peanuts-in-the-shell, fruit, package of crackers and cheese, raisins, balloons and stickers.

Plans For Holiday Happening

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — A holiday program sponsored by Montgomery County Cooperative Extension will be held on Tuesday, November 17, at the Montgomery County 4-H Center on Route 113 in Creamery. The program is open to the public and will run from 9:15 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Cost for the day is $8 and includes a luncheon.

The program will begin with musical selections by the North Penn High School Chamber Singers. The featured speaker will be florist Barb Leiby, who will demonstrate holiday decorating ideas using fresh greens and flowers.

Reservations are required and the deadline is November 10. For more information, contact the Extension office at (215)489-4315.

His 'N' Her Business

Mrs. Carper learns how to make many of the crafts at a homemakers meeting. Her most recent project is fitting designs "into" sweatshirt tops.

In one project, a design such as a matching flower, is cut out of material. Using Pellon Craft Bond, the design is ironed onto the article of clothing. Glitter around the edges helps to seal the seam.

Another project involves sewing the design to the inside of the article of clothing, then cutting the cloth so the design shows through. The edges of the cloth frays, forming a border around the design.

One of Mrs. Carper's most interesting projects is quilting old muslin feedbags. She very gently washes them in cold water and some salt. This preserves the colors, but cleans out any spots.

Old feedbags are hard to find, but a few can be found at farm sales. Mrs. Carper's daughter bought a whole roll of bags a couple of years ago and asked her mother to quilt one to sell at the fundraising auction to benefit the Juniata Mennonite School in McAlisterville.

Mrs. Carper's quilted feedbag wall hanging, complete with dowel rod and feedbag tie strings for hanging, brought $100. For this year's auction, Mr. Carper plans to make and donate a jelly cupboard with tin punch decorated doors.

Most feedbags are printed with the date, business, weight, and bag contents. One of Mrs. Carper's is a 1958 feedbag from Twin Valley Farm Bureau of Lewistown.

Mrs. Carper places a layer of quilt batting inside the bag. Then she uses quilting thread to outline large letters and important emblems or logos. It takes about three hours to complete.

In spite of all the woodworking and craftmaking, there are a few more things Mrs. Carper would like to do.

"I'd like to do more painting," she says, referring to a large wooden circular saw blade with a winter scene painted on one side and a summer scene on the other.

And someday, she'd like to quilt a full-size quilt.

But no matter what the project or craft, the Carpers enjoy working together "to be of service to others." Their pleasure is sharing their "grace notes" with others.

TAKING TIME

by Rebecca Escott

Extension Home Economist

'Tis the season for ghouls, ghosts and goblins. As adults we may take great delight in creating costumes, planning parties, and anticipating the adventures our children will experience as we celebrate Halloween.

But in some ways, this may be more of an adult holiday than we imagine. In fact, parents should really take thoughtful caution with younger children. Have you ever slaved long nights to create this perfect homemade costume for your three-year-old only to have her scream with fear as you put the disguising hat on?

Children's fears are not to be minimized. And parents should know that for younger children, Halloween activities may be unpleasant if not planned carefully.

Children experience three types of fears — inborn fears, age-related fears, and fears from traumatic experiences. As a parent, you may be comforted to know that many of your children's fears are quite normal for their ages. For instance, it is expected that:

- many 7-8 month olds will begin to fear strangers.
- many 2-year-olds will fear changes in familiar things (a mother's new haircut, a father's new beard or glasses); they also fear animals and other large objects.
- many 3- to 5-year-olds will fear the dark, masks, and imaginary monsters. They may also fear wild animals and strange noises.
- many 5-year-olds fear physical harm like getting hurt from a ball or bitten by an animal
- many 6-year-olds fear that others will hurt them. They fear ugly noises, ghosts, witches.
- many 6- to 11-year olds fear ridicule and rejection.

Age-related fears disappear if treated by adults with understanding and support. But by just reviewing this list, you can see how children might be less-than-thrilled about participating in Halloween parties and traditions.

If you are a parent, take time this week to consider your child's very normal fears and work around them. Here are a few important tips:

- Don't punish your child for being fearful. This only adds a fear of rejection or pain to his other fear.
- Don't over-protect. This gives your child a sense that she can't take care of herself.
- Instead, ask a child "Tell me what you afraid of."
- Don't force contact. In some cases, a parent can take away fear by turning on a light, removing a mask, or snuggling a child in the presence of a scary, costumed person.
- In advance, talk with your child about the gathering or the trick-or-treating experience. You may want to "play" the event in advance. Read picture books that show how children can make costumes and dress up and look different and yet still be a child inside.
- Play "what if...". Ask your child, "If we are walking up to Uncle Jim's porch, and you see a scary person, what can you do?" This allows your son or daughter to think about handling the fear. He could hold your hand, walk on the other side of the yard, say "stay away from me," or other things. This allows your child to feel some control.

Halloween can be a time for children to pretend and celebrate. But unfortunately, it can also be a time of increased fear. As the time approaches, carefully consider the situations your children will face. Are there any that will prey on their normal fears? Are they necessary? Can you prepare your child for some of the unusual sights? Making this an enjoyable experience for both adults and children is a matter of taking time.

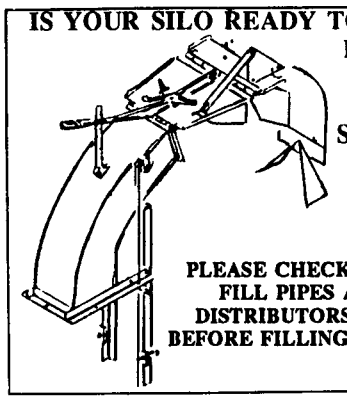
S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete
STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

WILL SERVICE 3 TO 4 DAYS OR LESS ON MOST JOBS

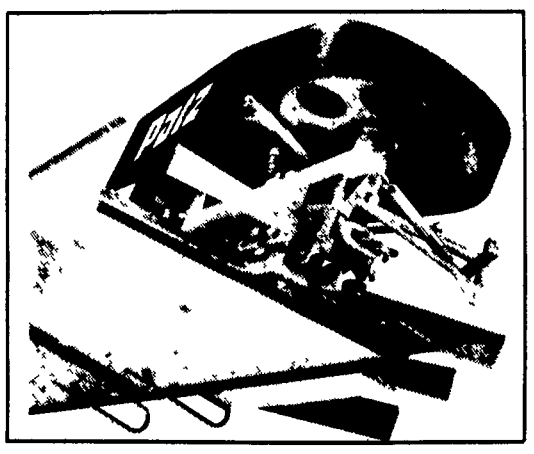
Patz Gutter Cleaner

4.9% Financing

Fast Facts:



- Durable Patz hook-and-eye link chain allows easy maintenance. Progression forging builds extra strength in hook-and-eye link contact points. Final heat treating increases hardness, strength and wear resistance.
- Choice of two link sizes to match gutter length.
- Four-tooth sprocket drives every link. Each sprocket tooth drives each link behind the hook — the link's thickest and strongest point.
- Flexibility for various layouts.
- Select 2" steel angle flites for solid manure or 4" high flites for slurry manure. Flites are welded to Patz links.
- Three drive unit sizes match your gutter length and allow expansion.
- Corner wheel top-and-bottom flanges guide the chain around the corner. Corner wheel assemblies remove easily for service without concrete breakout.
- Automatic chain tightener.
- Heavy-guage steel slide with steel center beam for added strength.

Atkins Shows Winning Hog At National

NORTH LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon County 4-H'er, Dan Atkins of Lebanon, recently showed one of his homebred hogs and won the reserve champion of the Eastern National Livestock Show in Timonium, Md.

Judge Matt Claeys, North Carolina livestock extension specialist said that Atkin's pig was "one of the thickest muscled, leanest, longest hogs in the show."

He (the pig) was very fresh appearing.

Atkin's Hampshire-cross barrow was the product of his 4-H swine breeding project. Lebanon County Agent Ken Winebark has strongly encouraged 4-H members to expand into breeding projects in the livestock area.

Winebark said, "Livestock breeding projects give our 4-H youth a true picture of the industry they are working in. They learn all aspects of producing and management that are needed in determining whether they are interested in that career. I'm delighted to see my 4-H'ers excel, especially if it's a homebred animal like Dan's."

The Eastern National Livestock Show is one of the premiere livestock shows on the East Coast. Youth and open exhibitors from the East Coast and Midwest states exhibited animals at this year's show.

For more information about 4-H, Penn State Extension's youth development program or the livestock clubs, contact Winebark at 2120 Cornwall Road, Suite 1, Lebanon, 17042, or call 270-4391.

Other 4-H'ers representing Pennsylvania were Joshua Hercher, Dauphin County, in bicycle; and Greg Marshall, Indiana County, in compact tractor.

Special thanks goes to two local firms, Lebanon Valley Implement and Binkley and Hurst, Inc. for sponsoring Troutman's trip to Virginia for the competition.

Each national delegate was recognized during a special reception and received their national honor certificates, honor ribbons, and scholarship awards from the representatives of national event sponsors; Alabama Power Co., Firestone/Bridgestone Trust Fund and Kubota Tractor Corp.

The National 4-H Engineering Event has been annually coordinated by a national 4-H engineering management team

4-H Stockman's Show

John Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norris, Ohioville, ended his 10-year 4-H career with a lot of success.

John has received a plaque for four consecutive years for the highest placing polled hereford at the annual Beaver County 4-H Stockmans Club Show. The plaque was donated by the Tellish Hereford Farm, owned by Ed and Nancy Tellish of Hookstown, and Hel-Jon Farm, owned by John and Helen Vidovich of Midland.

John's 4-H projects were all Registered Polled Herefords purchased from the Tellish Hereford Farm. In 1989, John went to grand champion seat and sold his steer for a record $5.50 per pound. In 1991, he had a reserve grand champion at the show.

In 1990 and 1992, he was successful in raising the champion Polled Hereford. John has used some of the money to establish his Registered Polled Hereford herd, which consists of 24 head to help finance his education at Penn State Beaver Campus, Monaca, where he is majoring in agriculture science.

Pa. 4-H Livestock Judging Team Fares Well At Eastern

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The Eastern Regional Livestock Judging contest at Richmond, Virginia proved to be a challenging but rewarding day for Pennsylvania's 4-H livestock judging team. The team placed sixth overall. The team also placed in the top 10 for all three species-beef, sheep and swine.

The team, which was made up of the first, second, fourth and seventh place individuals from the state 4-H livestock judging contest at Penn State University this summer, was comprised of Brian Kreider and John Risser of Lebanon County, Chris Lyle of Washington County and Todd Rabenold of Berks County. The team was coached by Ken Winebark who is the Lebanon County agent with the Penn State Cooperative Extension

John Risser, Lebanon, was high member on the team. John currently works for Hydro-Kirby Agri Service in Leola. He runs a small farrow-to-finish hog operation of his own and was recently named KILE (Keystone International Livestock Exposition) FFA boy for 1992. He plans to enter the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences this winter.

Todd Rabenold, Kutztown, was fourth high individual in swine and sheep judging. Todd hails from a purebred Hampshire hog and dairy farm. He is a freshman student majoring in agriculture at Penn State University.

Chris Lyle of Washington County raises purebred Suffolk sheep. He is enrolled as a freshman at West Virginia University. He plans on becoming a large animal veterinarian. Chris was recently named KILE 4-H boy for 1992.

Brain Kreider of Lebanon resides on a beef finishing operation and crop farm. Brain is a freshman agronomy student at Penn State Berks Campus.

The Lebanon County 4-H'ers were helped by Carlos R. Leffler Inc.; Harry H. Bachman, auctioneer; Lebanon Valley National Bank and Sheehy Ford for their financial support for their trips.

DEAR DAIRYMAN:

MASTER MIX® AND PFIZER® WOULD LIKE TO THANK YOU FOR PURCHASING RUMA WORM PAC. WE KNOW IT WILL BE AN ECONOMIC BENEFIT FOR YOU WHEN USED WITH YOUR DAIRY ANIMALS.

ADDITIONALLY, WE HOPE YOU ENJOY THE WARMTH OF YOUR MILK COW BLANKET

Master Mix RESEARCH APPROVED

Farmacy® Animal Health Products

Five good reasons to deworm your whole herd with Ruma Worm Pac.

1. Worms are a whole-herd problem. They threaten the health and productivity of your young stock and milking herd alike.

2. Rumatel makes whole-herd deworming easy. You can effectively deworm calves, heifers, dry cows, lactating cows and bulls in one simple treatment (Bavmix® requires six)

3. No milk discard. TBZ® forces you to dump eight milkings ($2,200 worth in a 100-cow herd averaging 50 lbs. of milk per cow per day, and at a milk price of $11/cwt.) With Rumatel you don't waste a drop

4. No milk residues. Ivomec® may only legally be administered to males and pre-breeding weight heifers, while Rumatel may be safely fed to lactating cows at any time without risking milk residues[1]

5. Rumatel is extremely palatable. Unlike other in-feed dewormers, Rumatel doesn't make animals back off feed.

There's just no good reason to settle for incomplete or inconvenient deworming. Ask your feed supplier for Rumatel today.

Rumatel is a Pfizer Inc. trademark for morantel tartrate. Bavmix is the Cutter Animal Health trademark for coumaphos. TBZ is the Merck and Co., Inc. trademark for thiabendazole. Ivomec is the Merck and Co., Inc. trademark for ivermectin. For a copy of an independent research article about milk residues in lactating cows given injections of ivermectin, write Pfizer at 235 E. 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017

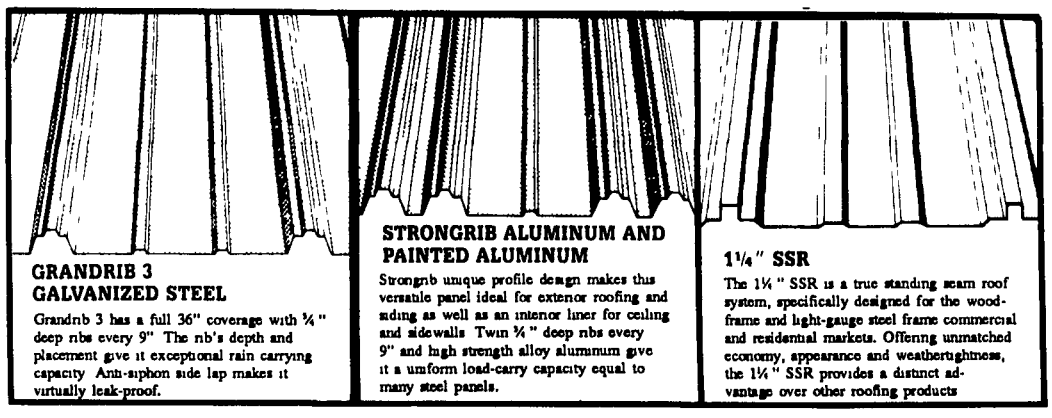
Durable attractive affordable.



GRANDRIB 3 GALVANIZED STEEL

Grandrib 3 has a full 36" coverage with ¾" deep ribs every 9". The rib's depth and placement give it exceptional rain carrying capacity. Anti-siphon side lap makes it virtually leak-proof.

STRONGRIB ALUMINUM AND PAINTED ALUMINUM

Strongrib unique profile design makes this versatile panel ideal for exterior roofing and siding as well as an interior liner for ceiling and sidewalls. Twin ¾" deep ribs every 9" and high strength alloy aluminum give it a uniform load-carry capacity equal to many steel panels.

1¼" SSR

The 1¼" SSR is a true standing seam roof system, specifically designed for the wood-frame and light-gauge steel frame commercial and residential markets. Offering unmatched economy, appearance and weathertightness, the 1¼" SSR provides a distinct advantage over other roofing products.

Fabral's steel colors provide years of maintenance-free service to any structure. Our strict quality control standards and painting procedures assure you of receiving a superior finish every time. Each steel coil is prepared for painting by an alkali cleaning, hot water rinsing, application of pre-treatment, cold water rinsing, acid sealing rinsing and thorough drying. The epoxy coating formulated to provide corrosion resistance and to interact with the topcoat is applied and oven cured. The exterior finish coat is applied and oven cured to provide a durable, tough finish.

STARVATION/ DEHYDRATION (STARVE-OUTS) OR IS IT? POULT (VIRAL) ENTERITIS (PART II)

Donald L. Singletary
Veterinary Science

In my July article I described how viral enteritis of young poultry could be easily confused with starve-outs.

The causes and symptoms were detailed. In this article I'll describe the economic effects, lesions, and the difficulty in diagnosing this health problem.

Postmortem Findings And Diagnosis

The intestinal tract lesions are generally mild and nonspecific. The intestines are thin and lack tone and are flabby, soft, and dilated. The intestinal contents are watery and foamy (gassy).

The cecal tubes are likewise distended with brown or yellowish foamy contents. A white, chalky pancreas is common. White urate deposits may be seen in the ureters and kidneys. The spleen is usually small.

Dehydration is usually severe. It is evident by a prominent leg vein; dry, shriveled discolored leg shanks; and dry, dark congested flesh. An important observation is that the droppings cake and ball up on the feet and toes. Excessive litter eating occurs and is found in the gizzard.

With these findings, a diagnosis of viral (poult) enteritis is generally made. However, to confirm the diagnosis is difficult because the viruses can't be isolated by routine laboratory procedures.

The most common method of identifying the viruses is by direct examination of intestinal contents with an electron microscope. Soon, the Penn State diagnostic laboratory will be able to provide this service. An electron microscope has been purchased and technical personnel have been hired to operate it.

Economic Effects

The economic loss because of this disease is considerable and is due to the secondary effects of the disease. Many birds become stunted and runted (giving the disease one of its names). The flock has a very uneven appearance, making it look like it has several different ages in it. Therefore, increased culling is necessary. The flock takes longer to reach market weight, feed conversions are increased, and condemnations are higher at processing.

Treatment

No specific treatment is available. Nevertheless, antibiotics and electrolytes in the feed and/or water, along with management practices such as supplying more heat, are helpful in reducing the economic effects of the disease.

Prevention And Control

Unfortunately, there are no vaccines to prevent this disease.

Where viral enteritis has become a severe and devastating farm problem, drastic and unpopular measures are necessary. These include the following:

- All birds on the farm must be depopulated.
- The all-in, all-out program must be followed if at all possible.
- Buildings and equipment must be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.
- A downtime of a minimum of 3 to 4 weeks is required before repopulation.

Summary

In summary, viral enteritis health problems can easily be confused with starve-outs. A detailed health history and laboratory diagnosis are essential to determine the cause of the mortality.

The economic losses due to viral enteritis are high. The problem is difficult to control because no vaccine is available and treatment is only supportive, not curative. Drastic management changes can be made to reduce enteritis on problem farms.

Commission Appoints Card

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff announced that Dr. C.S. Card has been appointed to be executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission.

The Animal Health Commission was created in 1988 and began meeting in summer of 1989. The commission is charged with developing policy on all animal health, research, diagnostic, and animal indemnity programs in the commonwealth. The commission also advises the Department of Agriculture concerning research funding related to animal health.

Card was a leader in the development of the Poultry and Mammalian Diagnostic Laboratory when he served as director of the Department of Veterinary Science at the Pennsylvania State University from 1979 to 1986. A former large animal veterinarian, Card also helped renovate the diagnostic laboratory system in Arizona during his tenure as Veterinary Science Department head at the University of Arizona's College of Agriculture. In additon, he worked closely with aquacultural development in Arizona and western areas.

"When Dr. Card was at Pennsylvania State University, he worked with the Department of Agriculture and the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center to build our laboratory system," Wolff said.

"That tripartite system for diagnostic services is the foundation for the programs that guard animal health in Pennsylvania."

Card and his family operated a small dairy farm in Maine. He received a veterinary degree from New York State College of Veterinary Medicine in 1957 and a PhD from Colorado State University in 1972.

White Oak Adds DVM To Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The ProGenetics branch of White Oak Mills, producers of Better Built Gilts and Bonus Maker Boars, recently added Peggy Hawkins, doctor of veterinary medicine, (DVM) to its staff.

Serving as production veterinarian, Hawkins is responsible for general herd health and preventative medicine. In addition, she will be conducting lab tests to identify prospective problems, writing up protocols, and administering health certificates for pigs moving out of the state or country.

"This is the kind of job that presents a real challenge and will allow me to specialize in swine production medicine," said Hawkins. "I'm looking forward to getting out there and experiencing the business."

Peggy Hawkins

Her interest in veterinary medicine started many years ago. "I always felt I had a biology aptitude, and I knew I wanted to do medicine, but not human medicine," she said. In 1977, Hawkins earned a veterinary medical technician degree at the Medical Institute of Minnesota. For nearly two years she worked as a medical technician at Glenwood Veterinary Clinic in Iowa. With the desire to get more involved, she decided to go back to school.

Hawkins was graduated from Iowa State University in May of 1982 with a bachelor's in animal science. During her college years, she served as a resident assistant, maintaining discipline, and providing general and career counseling for students living on campus. Based on leadership and service in the residence halls, she was awarded the Order of the Rose and Chessman.

Swaying from her career plans, Hawkins joined the Peace Corps in December 1982. Living in a grass hut with no running water in the Kingdom of Lesotho, Africa, was quite a change of pace. She taught junior high agriculture, integreated science and English, and high school English. "The whole experience solidified my feeling that I could come back and do anything," she said.

Upon returning to the United States, Hawkins worked as a laboratory technician for Iowa State University. Nearly one year later, she was enrolled in the veterinarian program at the university with definite goals of earning a degree and pursuing a career in swine production. "There aren't many women in the swine industry," said Hawkins. "I'm the kind of person who wants to make a difference in everything I do, and I think I can make a difference in the swine industry."

During her four years in school, Hawkins received the Lane Wells Scholarship, Class of 1963 Memorial Scholarship (selected by classmates), and the Purina Mills Swine Proficiency Award. She was actively involved with various organizations on campus and served as secretary and treasurer of the student chapter of the American Association of Swine Practitioners. In addition, she served on the executive council of the student chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association. Hawkins did preceptorships with the Meat Animal Research Center and the Sutton Veterinary Clinic in Nebraska, and in May of 1991 she received her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree. Hired by the National Pork Producer's Council in Iowa, Peggy served as the on-site veterinarian at the World Pork Expo in both 1991 and 1992.

A resident of Elizabethtown, Hawkins is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, American Association of Swine Practitioners, and the Iowa Veterinary Medical Association.

The UNI Quadrifan air system delivers uniform air flow across the full width of the machine for improved cleaning efficiency. Quadrifan is one of many new features of the 882 UNI husk-on ear corn harvester.

Harvester Has Quadrifan Air System

COLDWATER, Ohio — A new UNI husk-on ear corn harvester, model 882, recently was introduced by White-New Idea Farm Equipment Co.

The new UNI 882 ear corn harvester features new UNI Quadrifan air system, a series of four molded, aerodynamic fans on a common shaft which deliver uniform air flow across the full width of the machine regardless of the power setting. The system includes fully screened air inlets at each end of the assembly and between each compartment so foreign material entry is virtually eliminated. Equally spaced air outlets also contribute to the Quadrifan air system's outstanding cleaning ability. The net result of the Quadrifan system is improved cleaning efficiency enabling higher output than previous models.

The Quadrifan air cleaning system is strategically placed at each of the two-stage trash removal locations for efficient separation and removal as well as gentle husk-on ear handling. The first stage eliminates the majority of stalks and trash with most of the remaining trash eliminated at the second stage. An easy-to-adjust variable speed control allows you to match the Quadrifan air flow to specific field and crop conditions for maximal cleaning and minimal ear loss.

Additional new features of the 882 husk-on ear corn harvester include a new clean out door on the main conveyor boot for easy, complete cleaning between varieties and removal of any weed seed between fields. The entire boot assembly is easily removed if required. The new modular main conveyor boot incorporates a through shaft design with cast iron flange bearing housings on each end to withstand hard use. The two main drive shafts incorporate new designs and increased capacity bearings to match rugged commercial use. Another feature is the stronger hydraulically controlled, swinging elevator which allows you to position it 90 degrees to the right, to the rear, or 30 degress to the left for easy dump cart unloading.

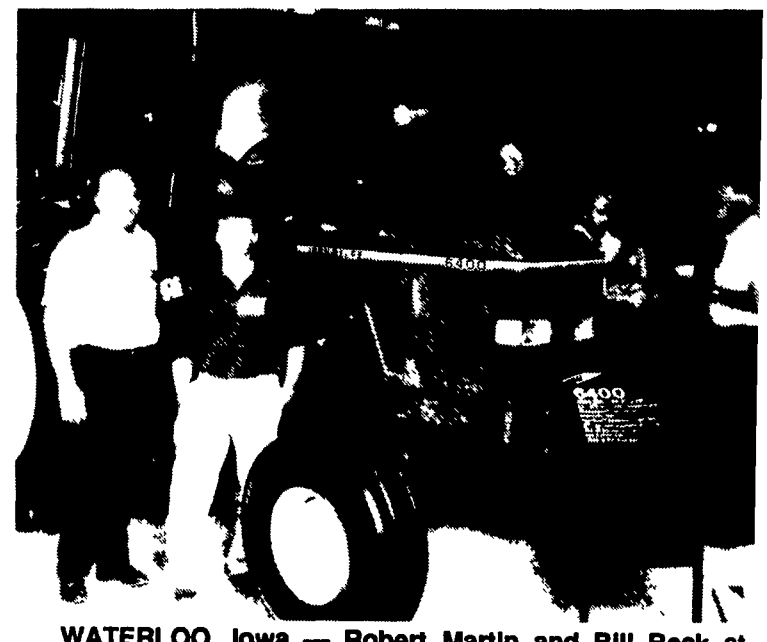
Salesmen Attend Tractor Training



WATERLOO, Iowa — Robert Martin and Bill Beck at A.B.C. Groff, Inc., recently attended a product introduction and training meeting on the new John Deere 6000 and 7000 Series tractors.

The two-day meeting included classes on the totally new 66-to 145-hp tractors and field demonstrations. "Stick time" was provided so each participant could operate the tractors and experience firsthand many of the new features discussed in class.

Training sessions also covered some new seeding and tillage equipment (and a new self-propelled sprayer) that said Beck he plans to mention when he shares his newly acquired tractor knowledge with area farmers in the weeks ahead.

Hoffman Seeds Conducts Performance Seminar

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Hoffman Seeds recently conducted a Performance Team Counselor Seminar attended by company management and service centers.

Mike Ubl, national accounts manager for the Ciba-Geigy Seed Division, was the featured speaker during the three-day session. His presentations focused on adding value to a farmer's seed investment through greater service commitment. Attendees were trained to counsel customers about product selection, growing conditions, and research findings.

"It's important that we provide our customers with more than just products," said Fred Lepley, vice president of sales and marketing. "We need to work with them to adequately answer all their questions.

"In essence, we want to become a partner with our customers. That way we can both work toward improving their crop production, which will ultimately improve their bottom line."

Lehigh Ag Equipment Earns Safety Recognition

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Lehigh Ag Equipment, Inc., recently earned recognition from John Deere for achieving its goal in Deere's Bypass Start Safety Program.

Steve Makarevich, General Manager, accepted the award on behalf of Lehigh Ag. Equip. Inc. from Mike Snyder, Territory Aftermarket Manager, during a presentation ceremony at the dealership recently.

"This award is important to us because it recognizes our effort to provide a safer working environment for our customers," said Makarevich.

The program is part of John Deere's effort to educate customers about the danger of bypass starting. Bypass starting is a general term for any starting method that bypasses the safety features designed into the starting system or departs from the proper starting procedure. Examples include shorting across the starter solenoid with a metal object and starting the tractor with a key from the ground.

Bypass starting is a dangerous practice because it places the operator on the ground in front of a drive wheel of the tractor. If the operator bypass starts the tractor while it's in gear, he will likely be run over.

Makarevich said that bypass starting is not unique to a particular brand or type of tractor. He urged all tractor operators to follow the correct starting procedure outlined in the operator's manual and never attempt to bypass start a tractor.

John Deere's Bypass Start Safety Program involves most Deere tractors built since 1960. The program calls for John Deere dealers to install a safety-start kit (starter solenoid cover and bypass start warning decal) on every qualifying tractor in their service areas and inspect the tractor's starting system. There is no charge to the customer for the kit, installation, inspection, or travel time. Those dealers who completed 100 percent of their assignments by a certain date were recognized by John Deere for their efforts.

"There still may be some tractors or owners we have been unable to identify," said Makarevich. "If this is the case, we urge these individuals to call the dealership immediately so we can schedule a technician to install a free safety-start kit and conduct a free inspection of the starting system. The phone number is 215-398-2553.

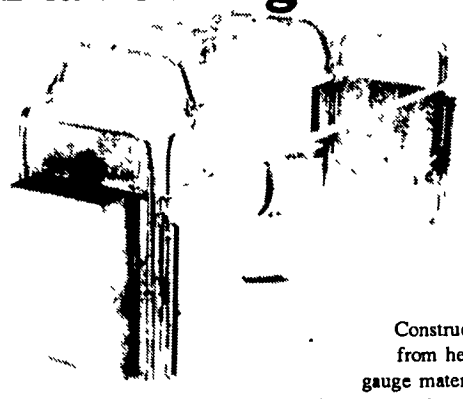
PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

BSM Model 90 Farrowing Crate



GALVANIZED!

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping in the piglets.
This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

Checkoffs Pay Off

Another summer season has come to a close. Summer is a wonderful time of year for planning outdoor activities and meals. It's also a great time to promote pork and pork products in a special seasonal way.

Pork promotion is one of the three primary purposes of the checkoff program, which also educates consumers and funds research. Industry promotion efforts are well thought-out and designed around the time or season the campaign is initiated.

Summer promotions are very different from those you see in winter. Summertime advertisements are usually directed toward outside food preparation, featuring cuts that can be grilled or barbecued easily. We are drawn to these images when, during the heat of summer, we seek relief from long hours spent in a stifling kitchen. But during the winter months, the advertising focus returns to warm home-and-hearth images of pork being prepared inside, featuring hams and roasts that seem to fill the house with good smells and good times.

Does this kind of advertising and promotion work? You bet! Would any industry spend hundreds of thousands and even millions of dollars to promote their products if these efforts weren't effective? I understand that McDonalds spends 10 percent of its entire budget on advertising. If you have a young child at home, you know that they learn to recognize the golden arches quickly, simply because McDonalds ads influence them early Checkoffs dollars also support consumer education. The pork industry is proactive in confronting misinformation about our products. The only way to combat misinformation is to provide facts from reliable sources. Facts are the best promotion our industry has. And we must be equipped with the facts. If we are reliable sources of information, news people will come to us for comment on current issues.

Research is the third aim supported by checkoff dollars. If the pork industry is to remain competitive, we must continue to produce a consistently wholesome and safe product that consumers prefer. This won't happen on its own. The trend in recent years toward hogs purchased through lean-payment incentives is just one way producers have had to adjust. Researching new ways we can improve this lean gain can help our industry remain profitable.

The consumer trend toward easy-to-prepare meals makes product development research a necessity. The fabrication of consumer-preferred products from less desirable retail cuts is one way. An example of this is the McRib sandwich, a tasty formed product made from pork pieces. Continued research in product development can net a better market share for our industry.

Quality assurance is another area in which our industry has made inroads. Research into how we can produce higher-quality pork, along with programs to help producers eliminate the slightest chance of drug residues, reinforces consumer confidence.

The pork industry has come a long way in the past 10 years. And the checkoff has, in a way, united us to address the challenges of an ever-changing market. The checkoff also has required all producers, regarless of who they are and how they feel about the effort, pay their own way. After all, the programs initiated by the checkoff benefit everyone in the industry.

Agent Honored By Peers

MIDDLEBURG (Snyder Co.) — Phil Durst, Snyder County extension agent, was recently honored by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA) with the Achievement Award at their annual meeting in Little Rock, Ark.

The NACAA Achievement Award is given to one agent per state with less than 10 years of service to recognize excellence in the field of professional extension. Achievement Award recipients are also honored by their state association.

Phil Durst

Durst conducts dairy and nutrient management programs in Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour counties. His work in nutrition included workshops for farmers and the development of a computer spreadsheet program that compares dairy rations against standards. Approximately 70 percent of workshop participants improved their feeding programs.

Durst's herd health program resulted in lower calf mortality and increased growth rates for heifers. Farmers participating in his nutrient management programs have significantly lower fertilizer costs through improved use of manure.

Durst was also selected as a national finalist for the NACAA's Livestock Production Award. This award was for Durst's program to increase colostrum intake in newborn calves and other practices to improve the feeding and housing of calves and heifers.

Durst has served as an extension agent in Snyder County for four years. He has recently accepted the position of county extension director in Montour County starting November 2. Richard Little, Montour County extension agent will be retiring on October 31 after 37 years of service, 28 of them in Montour County. Little and Durst have worked together to provide education and problem-solving help to farmers in the four counties. In his new position, Durst will continue to conduct dairy and nutrient management work in the four counties.

Field Cultivator Features 5-Bar Design

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has announced a new 5-section, overfolding 985 field cultivators that replaces the company's 1060 model. The 985's mainframe and wings feature a full 5-bar design with a 125 inch fore-aft clearance that promotes high residue flow through the machine. A 24 inch under-frame clearance also contributes to the 985's residue handling capabilities.

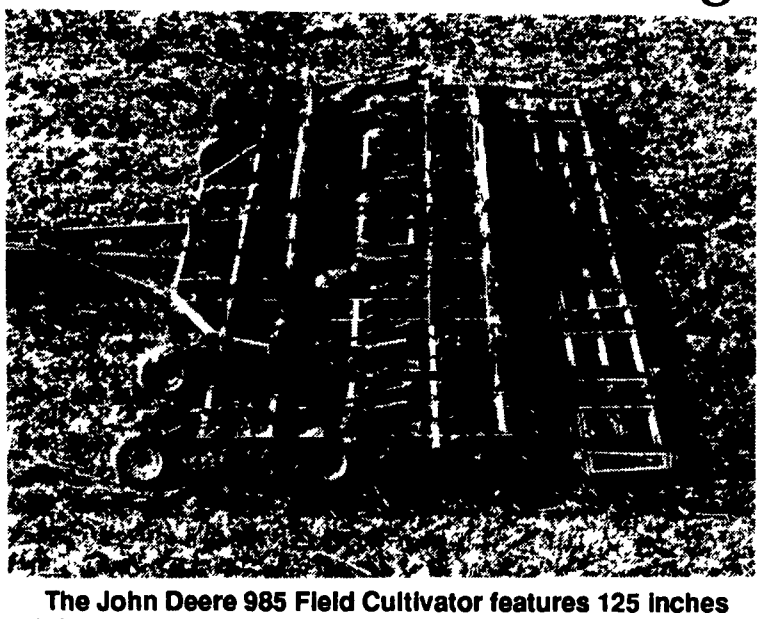
New 9/16 x 1-¾ x 24 inches C-standards have a 135 pound trip force to maintain consistent sweep depth. A 10 inch trip height enables the shanks to clear obstructions.

Standards are positioned on 6 inch spacing to enhance chemical incorporation and seedbed preparation. The 5-bar design provides a minimum 24 inch on-rank spacing between standards for increased residue flow. Optional 9 inch spacing provides even more residue handling capacity for farmers who are managing higher residue levels to meet conservation objectives.

A new 3-bar coil tine harrow attachment provides 3 inch of additional spacing between bars and 4 inch longer tines than the previous model. The new 15 inch bar spacing and 16 inch tines help residue flow easily through the harrow. A 3 inch effective tine spacing thoroughly incorporates chemicals.

A lockup feature permits the harrow sections to be locked out of the way for varying field conditions.

The 985 offers more sizes than previously available to match tractors with 190 to 322 PTO horsepower. Sizes range from 47 feet 6 inches to 61 feet 6 inches on 6 inch spacing and 47 feet 3 inches to 62 feet 3 inches on 9 inch spacing.



The John Deere 985 Field Cultivator features 125 inches of fore-aft clearance, an under-frame clearance of 24 inches, and minimum 24 inches on-rank spacing between standards to promote high residue flow through the machine. The 985 is available in three sizes with standards positioned on 6 inch or optional 9 inch spacing.

The 5-section overfold design enables the inner wings to fold 98 degrees overcenter while the outer wings fold 180 degrees, providing all sizes with a transport width of 19 feet 7 inches. Transport height ranges from 14 feet 1 inch to 17 feet 1 inch, depending on size.

Welded frames feature 3 x 4 inch cross tubes and 2 x 5 inch side members for strength and durability. Tandem wheels mounted to the mainframe and wings provide even field performance and transport stability.

For operator convenience, the 985 features single-point depth control and hydraulic transport lockup.

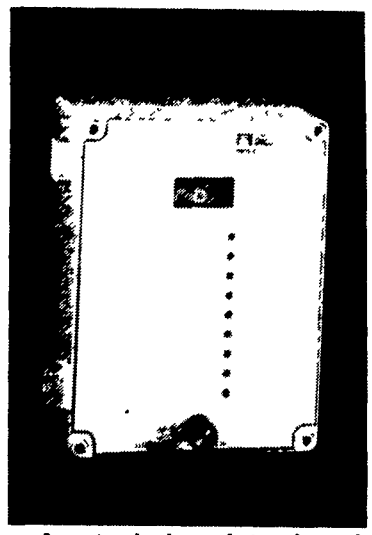
Control System Manages Ventilation

LANSING, Mich. — Aerotech, Inc., introduces The Manager™ Control, designed to let operators more easily and efficiently manage airflow and heating/cooling components in poultry and livestock buildings and greenhouses, improving the building environment and reducing energy costs.

With The Manager, operators can set up to nine temperature stages to the precise temperature desired. Each of these stages can then actuate a specific airflow or heating/cooling function in the building, allowing the operator to maximize control over the building environment.

"By having such easy and precise control of ventilation and temperature requirements, the producer can minimize stress on the building contents, thus increasing production," said Robert Mitchell, president of Aerotech.

The Manager Control is user-friendly. Setting the individual stages is easily done by pushing a button and turning a dial. And the entire range of stages can be subsequently adjusted up or down by simply changing the setting of the unit's master temperature control. The master control has a safety collar to prevent accidental movement of the setting.



Aerotech has introduced The Manager, a nine-stage control for managing ventilation and temperature components in poultry and livestock buildings and greenhouses.

Once the unit's stages are set, the operator can display any stage setting by simply touching the control's front at the pressure-sensitive pad of a specific stage. During operation, lights on the front of the control are lit when a stage is on.

Power to The Manager unit itself is 12 volts off the transformer, which evens out voltage and filters out line surges and spikes making it safer to work on. The Manager Control has a built-in alarm that activates when there is a power interruption, a failure of a temperature sensor probe, or a failure of the control board.

The Manager replaces Aerotech's popular Stage Manager™ control system. Input to The Manager can come from either a temperature sensor or computer control. Output can be sent to 12 Vdc, 24 Vac or 120/240 Vac relays.

For more information, contact Aerotech, Inc., 929 Terminal Road, Lansing, MI 48906, (800) 227-AERO or (517) 323-2930.

NFO Sets Annual Convention

AMES, Iowa — The National Farmers Organization (NFO) will convene its 36th annual national convention in Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 30-Dec. 3 at the Hyatt Regency.

The NFO is the nation's largest farm organization working for higher agricultural commodity prices through group marketing and price negotiations. More than 2,000 members and guests are expected to attend the convention.

The convention will be highlighted by five guest speakers:

- On Monday, Nov. 30, Canadian attorney, businessman and dairy farmer Del O'Brien will open the convention at 7 p.m. by discussing Canadian-U.S. free trade.
- On Tuesday, Dec. 1, Loren Kruse, editor of Successful Farming, will address the convention at 3:45 p.m.
- On Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 5:00 p.m., Donald J. Jonovic, Ph.D., a nationally-recognized authority on management organization, succession and ownership transition in the successful family business, will discuss managing success as a family farm.
- At 11:00 a.m., Wednesday, Dec. 2, Sister Christine Pratt of the Rural Life Ministry, Diocese of Toledo, will address the convention.
- Closing the convention at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 2, will be humorist and motivator Dale Minnick of Woodward, Okla.

Committee meetings will be held Monday, Nov. 30. They include committees on resolutions, credentials, election and tally, and arrangements.

In addition to Tuesday's guest speakers, NFO President Steve Halloran will give the "State of the Organization" address at 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Dec. 2, will be devoted primarily to commodity sessions, which are open to the public. Brief program summaries will be presented by the Livestock Department at 8:15 a.m., the Grain Department at 10:30 a.m., and the Dairy Department at 1:30 p.m.

Other activities during the convention include a young farmers reception on Dec. 1 at 9 p.m., a dance Dec. 2 at 8 p.m., and seating of the new NFO board of directors.

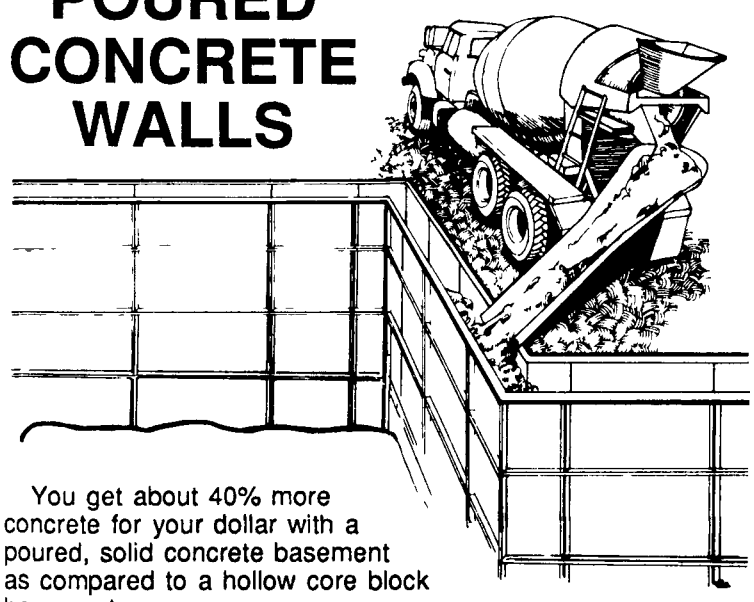
POURED SOLID CONCRETE STORAGE SYSTEM SPECIALISTS

START WITH THE BEST!

POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement.

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser. What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic ... there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration.

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced.

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls
- Cistern Walls
- Concrete Decks
- Concrete Pit Tops

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

A LOAD OF MIRACLE BREWER'S WET GRAINS . . . LOADS MORE MILK

Have you considered brewer's wet grains to give your herd's production a boost? Brewer's wet grains from Miracle Feeds are an excellent protein and energy source. They can readily make up to 20-30% of the ration's dry matter Combined with McNess vitamins and minerals they can provide a very efficient rumen by-pass way to feed

Researchers estimate that between 45-55% of brewer's wet grains' protein escapes rumen degradation compared to only 25-30% for soybean meal. This by-pass protein is more efficiently digested and absorbed in the cow's small intestine

For more information on the use of brewer's grains and other by-products, plus McNess premixes, contact Bob Hoffmann at (716) 344-3930

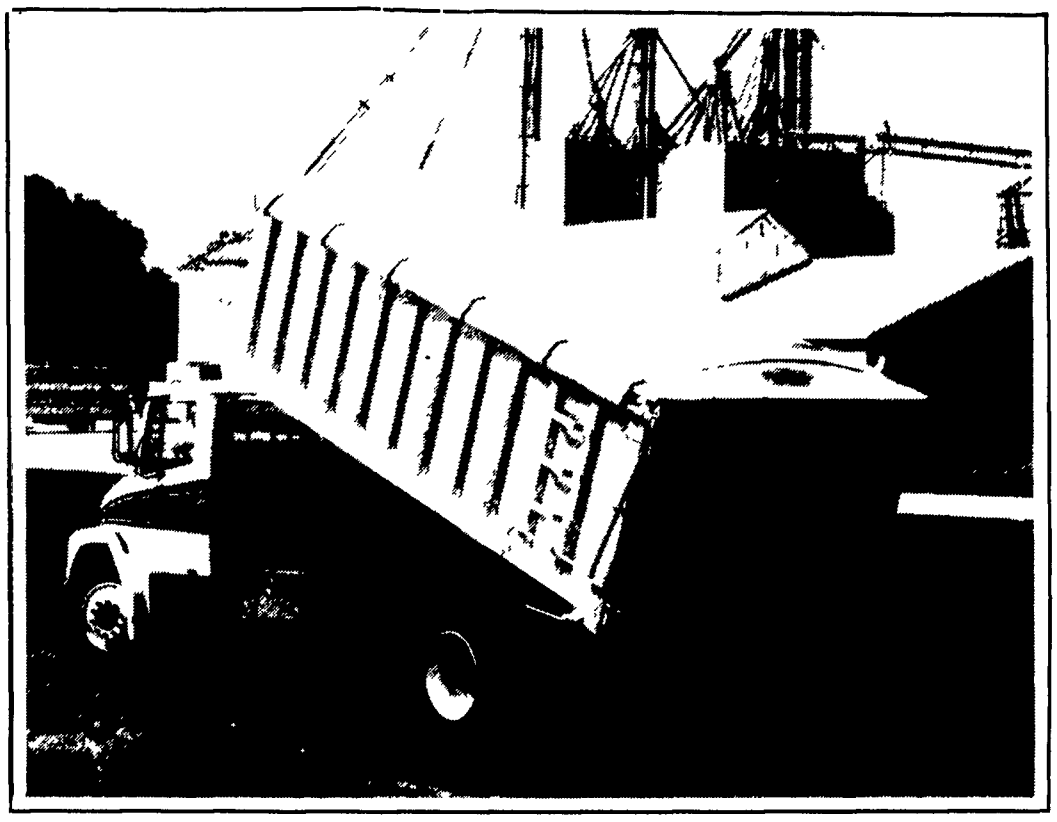
In grain bodies, aluminum makes $ense.



Eby Aluminum Grain Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:

- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

FREE FITTED TARP THRU 11-1-92

If you think that steel is cheaper, think again. We can show you how aluminum actually saves you dollars in the long run.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' and a 48" standard height; optional heights include 54", 60" and 72". A long list of standard features such as tie rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and chute.

When you select your next grain body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.

PRV HEADLINES

PA Pseudorabies Committee and Penn State Extension to alert you to developments in PRV and its control

WHAT IS PSEUDORABIES?

Editor's Note: This article is adapted from "Pseudorabies In Swine," USDA/APHIS Program Aid No. 1301.

Pseudorabies is principally a disease of swine caused by a herpes virus.

Swine are the only known reservoir and the prime spreaders of the disease. The herpes virus family to which pseudorabies belongs is extensive, and most animal species are afflicted by one or more diseases caused by a herpes virus.

In humans, herpes viruses cause fever blisters, cold sores, genital herpes, chicken pox, and shingles. The pseudorabies virus, however, does not affect man and higher apes.

Pseudorabies is occasionally transmitted from swine to cattle, sheep, dogs, cats, and wild animals, where it causes encephalitis, intense itching, self-mutilation, and death. Because sudden death is the rule, these animals play a limited role in the spread of the disease.

Symptoms in swine vary from an inapparent infection to sudden death. Severity is dependent on the age and immune status of the hogs, virulence of the viral strain, dose of the virus, and presence of concurrent infections.

What Are The Clinical Signs In Swine?

One of the insidious aspects of pseudorabies is that it may be present in a herd without showing clear, clinical signs.

Symptoms may be overlooked or mistaken for other diseases, especially in herds with some immunity and no young pigs present.

Pigs under three weeks of age may show loss of appetite, incoordination, depression, vomiting, nervousness, diarrhea, and convulsions, often followed by death of the entire litter. In older pigs, signs may include fever, loss of appetite, coughing, sneezing, pneumonia, convulsions, and occasionally blindness.

In sows, one may see reproductive problems, including abortion and stillborn or mummified pigs.

Do All Exposed Hogs Show Symptoms Of The Disease?

No. If sows were previously infected, their milk contains antibodies that protect the piglets during the critical early weeks. Protection by maternal antibodies gradually subsides, and pigs become susceptible between the ages of 10 and 16 weeks. Infections at this stage are frequently subclinical.

In older hogs, clinical signs may be absent, or flu-like symptoms may occur. Clinical signs are most prominent when infection is introduced into a susceptible herd while sows are farrowing. Since other species always show visible signs, a dead dog, cat, or raccoon near swine may be the first indication that a herd is infected.

The Hesston model 514 round baler produces weather-resistant bales, six feet in diameter and five feet wide. A low-profile design makes the model 514 easy to store and maneuver and provides an operator with good visibility in the field.

Round Baler Easy To Store, Maneuver

ATLANTA, Ga. — AGCO Hesston's new 514 round baler combines the efficiency of fixed-chamber baling with easy operation, low maintenance, strong durability, and a consistently higher quality bale.

The Hesston model 514 round baler produces weather-resistant bales, six feet in diameter and five feet wide. A low-profile design makes the model 514 easy to store and maneuver and provides an operator with good visibility in the field.

An open-throat, fixed volume bale chamber permits crops to be fed directly through the 13 inch throat opening and then moved back to the forming belts in the back of the chamber by five 11 inch bottom-forming belts. The control monitor for the electric tie is tractor mounted, allowing the operator to program twine tying speed. The model 514 can produce up to 24 bales or 18 tons/hour.

The 514 can be counted on to produce up to 24 top-quality 5-foot by 6-foot diameter bales per hour that are tightly packed on the outside to protect them from the weather with a soft center that allows ventilation and protects the feed value.

The Hesston 514 fixed-chamber round baler is available with either 540 or 1,000 RPM PTO speeds.

FARMING FOR THE FUTURE with Aer-Way

➡ A new AERWAY can be your ticket to INCREASED PROFITS ⬅
and help you comply to your conservation plan.

UNIVERSITY TESTS SHOW
- AerWay-ing Pays
- Increases yield and quality
- Important part of intensive hay and pasture management
- Helps conserve valuable soil, fertilizer and water.
- Reduces compaction
- Improves manure management
- Reduces run-off
- Promotes extended stand life

"This year we ran the Aer-Way over half the land where we had harvested corn silage We then spread between 4,000-5,000 gallons of liquid manure per acre and disked the seed bed to prepare for small grains We were absolutely amazed at the difference where we used the Aer-Way and one disking. My non-Aer-Wayed ground was disked 3 to 4 times and still wasn't as good I would recommend the Aer-Way to other farmers as it softens the ground and lets rain and manure penetrate instead of running off."
W.W Sandford III -
Kenwood Farm, Orange, Virginia

"Earlier this spring, I used the Aer-Way implement and Aer-Way chain harrow on my rolling pastureland. This was done to open up the ground to get water into the sloping grasslands. At the same time I pulled the Aer-Way chain harrow to scatter the cattle manure around. Even after the dry summer we had, I noticed that the Aer-Wayed ground held the moisture better and we got thicker and taller regrowth where we ran the machine."
Dr. Rex Wilhelm D.V.M., Stuart, Iowa

"I have better pastures since I started using the Aer-Way to aerate and renovate my pastures. Using the Aer-Way has helped me get the nutrients where they are needed. I would not recommend fertilizing or liming without running the Aer-Way first."

Tilth Topics At 6-State Tillage Event

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — British ships had not yet sailed around the world when Fitzherbert, an English agriculturalist, first made observations about soil compaction and its adverse effects on crop yields at the site of what later became Britain's famed Rothamsted experimental station.

Now, more than 450 years later, soil compaction has suddenly become a timely topic at major farmer education meetings in the United States.

Fitzherbert observed soil compactions caused by humans and horses. Modern soil compaction problems, of course, are compounded by the weight of heavy machinery.

The latest reserach findings on soil compaction, deep tillage, and tilth index system for measuring soil condition will highlight the morning session at this year's Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference on Thursday, December 17. The 19th annual event will be held at the Embers Inn and Convention Center near Carlisle.

Dr. Thomas S. Colvin, as agricultural engineer for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Research Service, will be the lead-off speaker. Colvin also will be a panel member during a breakout session on "Deep Tillage." He is associated with the National Soil Tilth Laboratory, based at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa.

Colvin's proposed soil tilth index system has been tested throughout the U.S. Corn Belt and in Russia. Tests also are under way in parts of Asia.

Plans are being made to accommodate more than 30 commercial and educational exhibits. Nearly 500 crop farmers and agribusiness representatives are expected to attend. Activities will run from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Following a midmorning break, conference participants will have their choice of attending one of three concurrent breakout sessions related to the conference theme, "Back to the Basics." Topics and speakers are as follows: deep tillage, "When Is It Needed and Why It Might Be Used," Thomas S. Colvin, National Soil Tilth Lab., Ames, Iowa. "Deep Tillage Equipment," Lynn D. Hoffman, Agronomy Research Center, Penn State University; soil fertility, "Considerations for Conservation Tillage," Dr. Douglas B. Beegle, extension agronomist, Penn State.

Commercial update. Conference exhibitors will have opportunity to report on "What's New From Industry," a show-and-tell session on products, services, and technological advances.

The afternoon program will open with a repeat of the morning breakout sessions, giving individuals an opportunity to hear speakers in two of the three topic areas.

A farmer panel discussion will close out the day's program, with longtime conservation tillage operators telling how they manage soils for optimum production potential.

Tickets for the noon lunch are available at $6 each from county offices of the cooperative extension service throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance and not later than December 7.

Risk Management Series

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Cooperative extension Offices of central Maryland and the Farm Credit Bank have joined forces to present a seminar on risk management for farmers and agribusinesses.

The seminar series will be held at the Mt. Airy Fireman's Hall, Route 27 and Twin Arch Road. The four-week series will begin October 29 and continue for four consecutive Thursdays.

The 7 p.m. sessions will begin with dinner followed by the speaker and discussion. The series fee including dinner and materials is $35 per person.

Registration checks should be sent to the Montgomery County C.E.S., 18410 Muncaster Road, Derwood, MD 20855. Seating is limited to 100 participants, so early registration is encouraged.

Speakers who have agreed to present are Dr. Mary Stephenson, family resource mangement specialist, Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, a certified financial planner and life underwriter; Michael Lachance, Maryland Office on Aging; and Ruth Regan, insurance sales agent.

Santa Gertrudis Evaluated On Ranch-To-Rail Test

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — Santa Gertrudis cattle performed exceptionally well on the recently-completed Ranch-to-Rail feed test coordinated by Texas A&M University.

Both purebred and crossbred Santa Gertrudis were among the 666 head tested in the feedyard and evaluated on the rail.

The Promotion Committee of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association asked Dr. John McNeill at Texas A&M to help them increase the awareness of retained ownership as a marketing alternative for cow/calf producers. Personnel at A&M saw the opportunity to enhance that awareness and to make commercial and purebred producers more aware of the post-weaning performance and carcass characteristics of the cattle they are producing.

Most ranchers sell their calves at weaning and have little or no feedback on how they perform or whether or not their carcasses fit the needs of the industry.

Randall County Feed Yard at Canyon, Texas was chosen as the site for the first Ranch-to-Rail feeding group. Seventy-four producers from all over Texas consigned the cattle which averaged 594 pounds on arrival. Twenty-four breeds and all types of breed combinations were represented on the test.

Steers on the test were slaughtered in two groups after being fed for either 186 or 211 days. Data was analyzed by personnel at Texas A&M and producers were furnished with economic, performance, and carcass information on each of their entries.

Each producer was also furnished averages in most categories for the entire 666-head test group. Straight-bred Santa Gertrudis steers outperformed the average group in every category and Santa Gertrudis crosses also topped the averages in many categories.

When compared to the 666-head average performance, 23 Santa Gertrudis straight bred steers posted an average daily gain of 3.59 pounds; the 666 head averaged 3.03 pounds. Feed conversion for Santa Gertrudis steers averaged 6.85 pounds of feed per pound of gain; the 666 head averaged 8.08 pounds of feed per pound of gain. Santa Gertrudis steers had an average on-test beginning weight of 526 pounds, compared to a weight of 593 for the 666 head. Santa Gertrudis steers posted a total gain on test of 689 pounds, compared to a total gain of 592 for the 666 head.

Cost of gain/cwt. for Santa Gertrudis steers was $43.70, while cost of gain/cwt. for the 666 head on test was $53.65. Total carcass value for Santa Gertrudis steers was $942.90 compared to a carcass value of $903.78 for the 666 head.

Santa Gertrudis steers had an average yield grade of 2.5 and graded choice to select-. Only two steers in the group graded standard.

The most impressive figure — and the one that means the most to the producer — is the "net return" category. Average net return to the producer on straight-bred Santa Gertrudis steers was $181.60, compared to an average net return on 666 head of $89.99, a total of $91.61 greater net return on each of the 23 straightbred Santa Gertrudis steers on the test. Had all 666 head on the test averaged that same net return, the total dollar amount returned to producers would have been $61,012.26 more.

Purebred Santa Gertrudis steers tested in the ranch-to-rail program were consigned by Briggs Ranches, Welder Ranches, Bennett Ranch, and Five Oaks Ranch. Santa Gertrudis crosses were entered by Briggs Ranches, Fulton Farms, Bennett Ranch and Elaine Grande Ranch.

Data posted by Santa Gertrudis crossbred steers was also impressive. Santa Gertrudis/Hereford crosses had an average daily gain of 3.20 with a feed per pound of gain ratio of 7.64 pounds of feed for pound of gain. They averaged a total gain of 612 pounds, with an average out weight of 1,139 pounds. All graded select-plus or choice, with only one steer grading select. The average cost of gain/cwt. was $49.34 and the average net profit on each calf was $112.94.

Four three-way Santa Gertrudis/Angus/Hereford steers had an ADG of 3.14 pounds, requiring 7.96 pounds of feed per pound of gain. Total gain was 605 with an average out weight of 1201 pounds. Cost of gain/cwt. was $51.66 and total net profit per steer was $76.61.

Santa Gertrudis/Brangus crosses gained 2.65 on a 9.15 pounds of feed per pound of gain. Cost of gain was $56.95/cwt.

Due to interest in the program, it will be continued. Cattle will be placed on feed at two locations in October 1992. One site will be the Randall County Feed Yard at Canyon and a second feeding site will be determined in South Texas at a later date. For more information about the program, contact Dr. John McNeill at Texas A&M, (409) 845-3579.

The 1,225-pound grand champion steer exhibited by Todd Frankenfield of Royersford was purchased by Estate of George S. Snyder of Hatfield for a price of $2,511. The 1,200-pound reserve-grand champion steer exhibited by Jeremy Ruth of Telford was purchased by Rosenberger's Dairy, located in Hatfield, for $1,200. Rosenberger's Dairy then suprised the crowd by donating the animal to Montgomery County 4-H Foundation, which resold the animal. The averaged price received for all steers was $1.06 per pound.

The grand champion lamb exhibited by Jonathan Unruh of Harleysville was purchased by Clayton Landis Co. Inc. of Souderton for $570. The reserve grand champion lamb exhibited by Denise McMahon of Green Lane was purchased by Souderton-Telford Rotary Club for a price of $432.

Pairs of lamb were also auctioned off. The grand champion lamb pair with a combined weight of 253 pounds and exhibited by Jonathan Unruh was purchased by Rosenberger's Dairy for $974. Specht Realty of Pottstown purchased the reserve grand champion lamb pair exhibited by Susan Truehart of Norristown for $332. The average price received for all lambs was $2.51 per pound.

FARM MANAGEMENT

HIGH TIME FOR GRAIN MARKETING OVERHAUL

Jeff Patton
Farm Management Agent

"Farmers need to do a better job marketing their grain."

You'll hear it from the speaker at an ag meeting, a neighboring farmer, or maybe you've said it yourself. Is it true and, if so, where to begin?

A good place to start is to see how you've done marketing your crops over the last three crop years. It is said that two-thirds of farmers end up selling their grain in the bottom one-third of the yearly price range.

Taking the weekly prices for corn, soybeans, and wheat as reported for southeastern Pennsylvania, I have calculated the following cash price ranges per bushel:

Go back over your records. In which third of the yearly price range — top, middle, or low — does your average price fit?

Let me explain these price ranges. They are based on the reports of the Market News Service of the Pennsylvania Department of grain buyers every Monday morning. The staff in this office record the range in cash prices and calculate the average. These reports appear in the first section of Lancaster Farming, of course.

The cash price quotes they record are good ballpark figures, although the actual price you might get from a grain buyer depends on your grain volume and quality, timing of delivery, and negotiating skills.

The above values are for southeastern Pennsylvania (Lancaster County and east), not the entire state.

The crop year covers the following periods: For wheat, July 1 through June 30 and for corn and soybeans, October 1 through September 30 of each year. Use these dates to assemble the grain prices you received in order to come up with your yearly average price.

The figures for the current crop year goes right up to the grain market prices for Monday, September 14.These time periods better reflect the Pennsylvania harvest periods than do the official crop years.

The official crop years that you'll see reported in the national farm news and market reports are for wheat, June 1 to May 31 and for corn and soybeans, September 1 through August 31.

Here's how the ranges were calculated, taking the 1991-1992 crop year for corn as an example. The highest cash price average for the period was $3.02 (June 15, 1992) and the lowest was $2.62 (August 31, 1992). I divided the difference, 40, by three to determine the top, middle, and low thirds, which are shown above, first line for corn.

Don't despair if the prices you received came out on the low end — at least not yet. After all, you live on net profits, not how you did according to a benchmark measurement.

(Turn to Page D6)

For corn: Crop year	(Top 1/3 range	Middle 1/3	Bottom 1/3)
1991-'92	$2.89 to $3.02	$2.76 to $2.88	$2.62 to $2.75
1990-'91	$2.67 to $2.85	$2.49 to $2.66	$2.30 to $2.48
1989-'90	$3.10 to $3.32	$2.88 to $3.09	$2.66 to $2.87
For Soybeans:
1991-'92	$5.72 to $5.96	$5.47 to $5.71	$5.22 to $5.46
1990-'91	$5.88 to $6.19	$5.57 to $5.87	$5.26 to $5.56
1989-'90	$5.83 to $6.13	$5.54 to $5.82	$5.24 to $5.53
For Wheat:
1992-'93	$3.24 to $3.35	$3.12 to $3.23	$3.00 to $3.11
1991-'92	$3.87 to $4.48	$3.26 to $3.86	$2.65 to $3.25

For instance, a farmer who sells grain out of the field to a local, small-time dealer might be at the low end of the ranges. But that farmer also avoided the costs of storage and long-distance hauling.

If your standing in these ranges makes you want to do a better job marketing your grain, here are some things to do for this year's crop:

• Know what it costs you to produce the crop. Cooperative extension agents have access to budgets and other record-keeping tools to help you.

• Develop a grain marketing plan. Call my office, Lehigh County Cooperative Extension, at (215) 391-9840 for a free copy of a fact sheet entitled, "Developing a Grain Marketing Plan" by the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension.

• Be familiar with historical price and basis trends. From my office at the above phone number, you can receive free tables that show 10 years of weekly price averages and five years worth of weekly basis averages for corn, wheat, and soybeans in southeastern Pennsylvania.

• Learn about grain marketing techniques. An excellent place to start is by ordering the "Maryland Grain Marketing Notebook," a comprehensive 15 fact sheet series. Again, my office can get these for Pennsylvania farmers ($8). Of course, Maryland producers can obtain these through their county cooperative extension offices. Farmers in some areas have access to grain marketing clubs and "Market Master" sessions through young farmer associations.

• Get to know your grain buyer(s) better. Do you know what kind of volume or quality standards they're after? Will they deal in basis contracts? Do they have a hard time finding sellers during planting time or even the holidays? Do they know a special niche, such as grain for a food product, you might serve?

Act on that cliche, the first line of this article. Ask cooperative extension for help.

Sprouted Wheat Can Put Pigs At Risk

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Feeds produced during this summer's wet weather could put pigs at risk for mycotoxin poisoning, warns a swine specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Wet and warm conditions have led to some sprouting in newly harvested wheat," said Dr. Kenneth Kephart, associate professor of animal science. "When any grain approaches maturity during continuously wet weather, it's not unusual for kernels to sprout on the stalk."

The problem isn't necessarily the grains themselves. "Protein levels in sprouted grains usually are similar to those of undamaged grains," Kephart said.

The energy content and bushel weights usually are less, which should depress feed efficiency. However, studies in Canada and the United States have found that sprouted milo and frost-damaged barley had no detrimental effects on growth rate and performance.

But producers need to be aware that if there is enough moisture to make the grain sprout, there's also enough to grow mold. "And molds often produce dangerous mycotoxins, which have detrimental effects on hog production," said Kephart.

Symptoms of mycotoxin poisoning include general reduction in performance, feed refusal, swollen vulvas, prolapsed rectums, convulsions, and eventually death.

There is no treatment, but most symptoms can be reversed by removing contaminated grain from the pigs' food supply.

"If you must feed your animals sprouted grains, watch carefully for mycotoxin poisoning symptoms," Kephart said. "If at all possible, avoid feeding contaminated grain to sows because it increases the danger of abortion.

"If you suspect your feed grain is contaminated with mycotoxin, you can use a feed additive that has been effective in reducing the harmful effects of aflatoxin, one type of grain mycotoxin," Kephart said. "Nova-sil is an aluminosilicate that absorbs aflatoxin when added at the rate of 10 pounds per ton. The cost is about 25 cents per pound.

"In experiments with young pigs, Nova-sil almost completely reversed the effects of aflatoxin," Kephart said. "Unfortunately, Nova-Sil provides only a marginal response against vomitoxin and zearalenone, two mycotoxins which could be found in sprouted wheat in our region."

Commercial mold inhibitors and organic acids, such as fumaric, citric, propionic and acetic acids, will inhibit mold growth in feed. "However, when mycotoxins are a problem, they're usually in the grain before it's ground and mixed," Kephart said. "Under those conditions, mold inhibitors won't alleviate any existing mycotoxin problems."

Heating, roasting, and pelleting have been recommended for killing molds. "If the temperature is high enough, the molds will be destroyed," Kephart said. "But many mycotoxins are heat stable and may not be affected by the heating process."

Several laboratories in Pennsylvania can test grain samples for mycotoxin levels. "If the levels aren't too excessive, dilution with non-contaminated grain is a possibility," Kephart said. "For example, vomitoxin levels in your corn might be 50 parts per million. Even if you reduce that grain from 1,600 to 200 pounds per ton, you still have 4 ppm in the feed. That's still high enough to hurt performance."

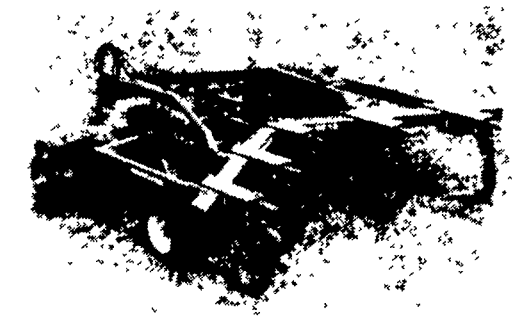
NEW AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS. FROM SUNFLOWER:

MODEL 4010/4110

SUNFLOWER® COULTER RIPPER



Conservation Tillage Equipment Built SUNFLOWER Tough!

Sunflower's Coulter Ripper is for today's conservation minded farmer demanding deep tillage with minimal residue disturbance These durable machines feature adjustable front mounted coulters on 7½ " centers. The coulter blades have an added advantage of slicing hard ground to keep clod size to a minimum The V-bar ripper design gives added trash clearance and pulls smoother than straight-bar rippers. These coulter rippers are built Sunflower tough and no ballast is added to the frame increasing the structural strength. Check out Sunflower's latest edition to its growing family of quality tillabe equipment at farm show or dealer near you.

Adjustable Coulter Gangs: The 4010/4110 both feature adjustable coulter gangs that can be raised completely in clean ground. Ratchet Jack Adjustment is standard equipment. Optional Hydraulic Gang Adjustment makes on the go changes or raising the coulters completely out of the way an easy task from the tractor seat.

KINZE 2500 TWIN-LINE® PLANTERS

YOU ASKED FOR IT...

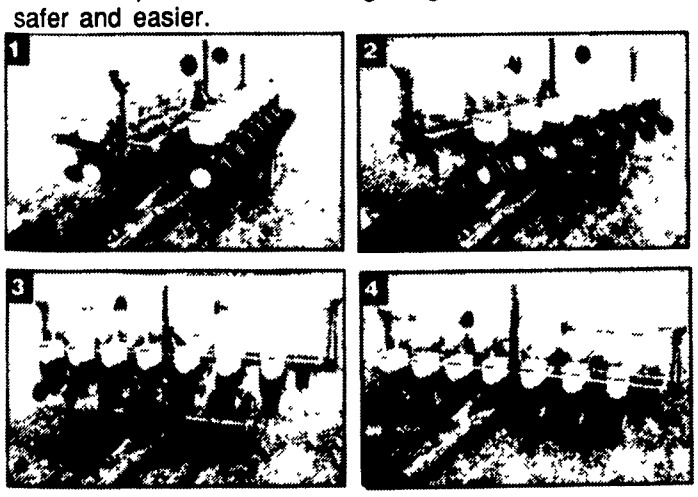
"We really need a six-row planter with a narrow transport width here in the East!"

WE LISTENED...

"Safe transportation of wide equipment on narrow roadways is increasingly difficult!"

KINZE RESPONDED!!

KINZ MFG. is pleased to announce the "NEW FOR '92" MODEL 2500 corn and bean planter. This unit was specifically designed at the request of farmers in Pennsylvania & New York. We've proven our excellence in the field, now we've made getting there and back safer and easier.



From transport to planting in seconds! Hydraulic controls let you rotate and lower the planter from the transport to planting position. A 3" x 48" hydraulic cylinder provides smooth, powerful lift. Only two safety pins need to be relocated manually. The guidepost is equipped with UHMW plastic wear pads that ride up and down against machined stainless steel guides.

THE NEW 6 ROW N AND 8 ROW N FOLDING PLANTERS WITH ALL THE PLANTING OPTIONS ... PLUS TRANSPORT AS NARROW AS 11' 2"!

- This is the one that's built for today's highly diversified planting practices, and the challenges of transport in high-traffic areas ... or wherever narrow transport widths are required. Surprisingly simple. Yet, extremely versatile. The 2500 features a rigid, balanced, double-toolbar frame that places the strength and weight of the planter where it belongs for superior handling and smooth, balanced folding. Available in 6 Row Narrow and 8 Row Narrow sizes.
- From field to the road in seconds! And a transport width of just 11' 2"! (12' 6" with interplant and no-till coulters.) Hydraulics control the lift and center-pivot of the planter frame. Four 7.50" x 20" tires provide maximum stability in transport and carry the planter in the field.
- The double-toolbar design? Clean. Uncluttered. And yet, able to handle all the options. Liquid or dry fertilizer, with single or double disc openers ... or, KINZE's patented interplant push units for 15" narrow rows. Plus, the residue management attachments that make it extremely versatile in everything from conventional to no-till fields.
- Spring-loaded contact drive provides smooth engage/disengage of the drive. Minimizes slippage. Eliminates mechanical clutches. All chains are mounted above the toolbar to avoid damage from rocks, trash or mud.
- Easy-access end-mounted transmissions and precision-cut, plated sprockets make changing rates a breeze — at increments of 3% or less — no tools required!
- Planting accuracy and dependability? Unmatched by any other planter in the field today. KINZE's reliable finger pickup corn meters are proven over millions of corn acres. And the exclusive brush-type seed meters for soybeans, milo and cotton are the latest state-of-the-art standard for seed metering accuracy and reliability.
- Uncompromising quality. Leading-edge technology. And, meeting today's demanding planting requirements ... KINZE!

One spreader through thick and thin

Why bother with both a box spreader and a liquid tank when one Gehl Scavenger® II spreader can handle any kind of manure?

From liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed or even frozen manure, the Scavenger II gives you two spreaders for the price of one.

Its patented square tube auger hydraulically powers up and down, pulsing through manure to break up and blend solid material. The Vanflo side discharge spreads smoothly and evenly in any amount, from fine top dressing to heavy spring spreading. And the entire tank is backed by a ten-year warranty against rust-through.

Ask your Gehl dealer about the versatile Scavenger II—available in 192, 260, 345, 468 and 596 bushel capacities.

GEHL

EVEN WHEN IT'S EMPTY...IT'S LOADED!

When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant.
- Single or tandem axle models available
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs.

THREE YEARS AGO, WE SET THE STANDARD. NOW WE'RE RAISING IT: INTRODUCING THE NEW 5200 SERIES MAXXUM® LINE.

NEW HP RATINGS From 80 To 90 To 100 To 112

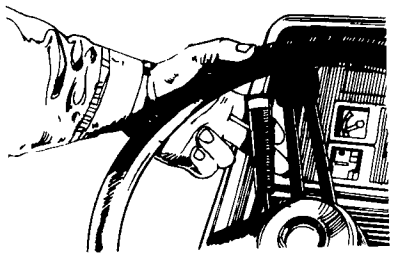
And Would You Believe The Competition Has Tried To Copy The Case IH Maxxum & Magnum Tractor Lines.... But OOPS!
They Didn't Make It! This Proves That Case IH Is Truly The Tractor Industry Leader!

① We Still Have Transmissions Made Out Of Real Iron - NOT Aluminum.

② Our Maxxum Tractor Line Weighs Almost 1 Ton More Than Most Competitive Brands In The Same HP Class.

③ Case IH Maxxum Tractors Are Still The Only Tractor Made With A True Shuttle Shift That Is Operated By Your Left Hand Which Also Operates Your Steering. This Leaves You Right Hand Free To Operate Loader Controls, Aux. Hydraulics & Other Operating Functions.

THE MAXXUM® SHUTTLE SHIFT: IT'S NEVER BEEN EASIER TO MAKE ALL THE RIGHT MOVES.



While it may be tough to choose between the four new Case International 5200 Series MAXXUM tractors now available one thing is certain No matter which model you select, the industry's top shuttle-shift system comes standard ■ And that means high-volume high speed loader work has never been easier With the flip of a fingertip, your MAXXUM shuttles quickly and decisively from forward to reverse, or vice versa, without clutching ■ The MAXXUM shuttle-shift is active between the first 12 forward speeds and the corresponding 12 reverse speeds allowing shuttle shifts at forward speeds of more than eight mph and reverse speeds of more than 10 mph ■ 'Shuttle-shift' a new 5200 Series MAXXUM tractor yourself Coming or going there's never been anything like it ④ Case IH Tractors Feature American Styling, NOT Italian Like Competition Has Compromised To.

JUST ARRIVED! WE HAVE A NEW CASE IH MODEL 5220, 80 HP, AND A NEW MODEL 5230 IN STOCK! ALSO...SEE BINKLEY & HURST FOR NEW CASE IH 5100 SERIES DEMO TRACTORS AT REDUCED PRICES - LET'S GET TOGETHER NOW!

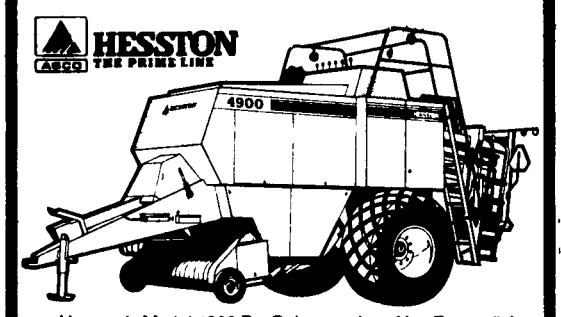
Big Baler... big performance

HESSTON AGCO THE PRIME LINE



Hesston's Model 4900 Big Baler is truly a "Hay Factory". It utilizes a concept similar to other Hesston center-line balers, but on a larger scale—45.6'x50'x8' to be exact.

The 4900 lets you put the equivalent of 20 to 30 conventional bales into a single Big Bale! But, it requires 30 to 40 percent less storage space than conventional 2-twine bales. And the Big Baler uses 30 percent less twine to do it!

Hesston's exclusive flake-forming concept assures uniform, high-density bales while standard hydraulic density control maintains consistent bale density and weight.

See your Hesston dealer now for a Big Baler with big performance!

BIG SHOT PRODUCER

HESSTON AGCO THE PRIME LINE

Don't let the size of our 4750 high-capacity baler fool you With the dimensions of a mid-size, it makes high density bales up to 31 5" wide by 34 4" high and as long as 98"

All you need is a minimum 90 PTO hp tractor to handle it A plunger speed of only 41 spm means high quality hay, with less damage to tender leaves In an efficient charge chamber, nutritious leaves are distributed throughout each flake - with minimum loss

With the 4750's self-contained hydraulic control mechanism, bale density is simple to set and control And the electronic monitor checks 10 different baler functions.

Stop by your AGCO/Hesston dealer listed here and ask about our flexible financing plans on the 4750. Or on our wide selection of other equipment, all backed by the AGCO Warranty Program You'll see why Hesston is quickly becoming a star in the field

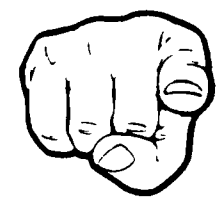
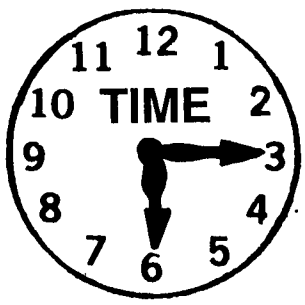
THE CROP IS YOUR $ CASH $



Everything you work for — tilling ground, planting seed, spraying or cultivating — depends upon Harvesting your CROP and getting it sold!

NOTHING HARVESTS CROPS LIKE A case IH Axial-Flow Combine!



HERE'S 4 REASONS WHY!

- Get in the field earlier - and stay later - because the Axial Flow Combine's specialty rotor separates grain from wet, damp material better than the competition. You get more done in less days than with a conventional combine.
- Grain from an Axial Flow combine is worth more, because it is less damaged and the sample is cleaner than from a conventional combine. (Food Corn growers PREFER Axial Flow for this reason.)
- The single rotor design eliminates the straw walker assembly and all the problems that go with all those bearings and vibration. All of the threshing and separating system parts are easy to get to, making maintenance a simple routine.
- Don Carper and his staff of (5) combine technicians work on combines 12 months of the year. Experience from starting over 250 Axial Flow combines in all kinds of crops and conditions means that they have probably fixed every problem there is when it comes to Axial Flow Combines. Their concern for your problems keeps you running when you want to run.

WE REPAIR COMBINE TABLE AUGERS

With this concentrate feeding system LESS MEANS MORE

Dairymen report a 7-8% increase in milk yield with 5% less concentrate input with the new VA 500.

Each cow's ration is fed automatically according to her individual lactation curve. Feeding for production means high producing cows get more. Every cow pays her way. The whole herd can be housed together and you don't need complicated computer support systems for operation.

Make your concentrate work harder.

LOAD...UNLOAD FASTER AND EASIER

When you're working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage—extra reach
With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one side so you get an even load. The result faster loading, fuller loads and easier unloading
With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher with less spillback And, with a longer wheelbase there's more stability and safety
Find out how good a skid-steer loader can be

ABC GROFF Since 1890 The name you can trust

Built Ford tough!

- Six new models
- 2WD and 4WD
- Efficient, new Genesis™ engines
- Versatile, hard-working hydraulics
- Roomy new deck designs
- Comfortable cabs

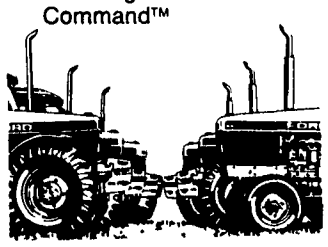
6640 & 7740 IN STOCK!

Come on in and we'll show you the model ready to work for you!

Power up with Ford PowerStar™ tractors

The new standard in 66 to 106 hp!

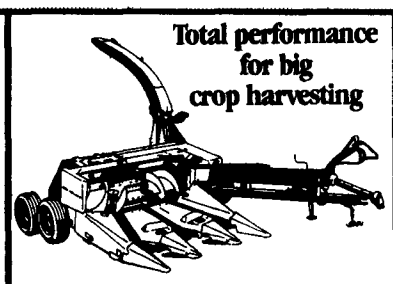
- New transmission choices, including the 16x16 Pulse Command™



Seeing is believing

Every minute you can save at the blower means more loads per day and more overall productivity. Let us demonstrate the New Holland Model 40 forage blower and we believe you'll agree you can increase your silage productivity.
The Model 40, with 20 percent greater tip speed than previous models, center fills silos over 80 feet high. The Whirl-A-Feed® table spins the crop into the blower housing at high speed, making more efficient use of your tractor's horsepower.
See us soon for a demonstration of the Model 40.

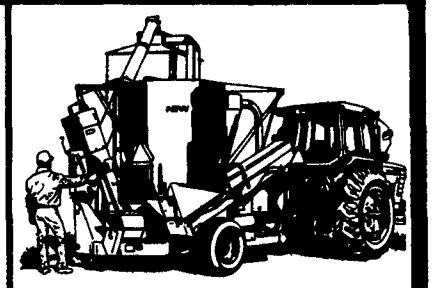
Total performance for big crop harvesting



You get total performance when you harvest your crops with a Model 900 forage harvester. Total performance begins at the cutterhead. The 12 knives of the 21-inch cutterhead give you uniformly cut, high-quality forage. Other features on the "900" include:

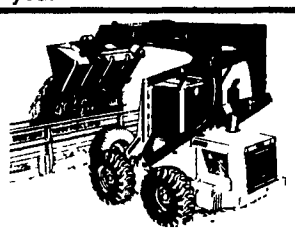
- Optional Metalert® II electronic metal detector—protects cutterhead and your valuable animals
- Electromagnetic clutches—give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar—makes adjustment fast and precise

Stop in soon and see the Model 900.



First in durability

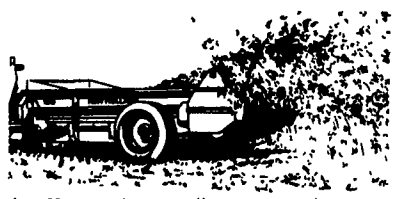
Surveys show owners rate New Holland grinder-mixers as the most durable. That's because Ford New Holland builds them right and backs them with quality parts and service. The Model 358 has a 125-bushel tank that's specially designed to eliminate bridging. An optional electronic scale assures accurate control of rations. Stop in and see the durable Model 358 grinder-mixer



Load...unload faster and easier

When you're working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage — extra reach. With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one side so you get an even load. The result: faster loading, fuller loads and easier unloading.
With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher... with less spillback. And, with a longer wheelbase there's more stability and safety. So, why get stuck with anything else?
Find out just how good a skid-steer loader can be.

We have a spreader for any farm



Ford New Holland offers six quality spreaders to match any farming operation. All New Holland spreaders clean out fast to make quick work of dirty jobs.

Model	Capacity (bu.)

- Bonded Protection, the exclusive lifetime guarantee, covers the polyethylene floor and steel sides. Ask us for details.
- Corrosion-resistant steels are used throughout for tough, long-lasting construction.
- Plus adding optional slurry sides on the Models 145, 155 and 185 increases capacity up to 25% at a fraction of the cost.

NEW 600 SERIES LOADERS... GREAT NEWS

Your hydraulic power needs vary from one loader job to the next. So we built a new hydraulic system for new 6000 Series Tractors that varies pressure and flow to match your demand. If you need a big flow of oil, you'll get it... the 16 gpm main pump provides maximum pressure up to 2900 psi. You get exactly the response you need, fed to the fastest cycling, most productive new loaders we've ever built. Come see us for more details.

'TIS THE SEASON!

Yes - The Harvest Season is Here!
Store your good corn crop in a POURED CONCRETE SOLLENBERGER SILO.

Units available for "High-Moisture" shelled corn or "Ground Ear" corn. Bottom-Unloading or Top-Unloading. Consider the Many Advantages of Concrete! 6" thick concrete walls to keep feed cooler because concrete reflects the sun's rays, and has 25 times more insulating power than steel. The concrete silo has a much lower maintenance requirement because there are not thousands of bolts to rust and work loose and no seams to reseal. The poured concrete silo is heavily reinforced to give you a very strong structure.

Unload from the bottom with a simple auger for high-moisture shelled corn, (least expensive); Laidig 43 for shelled corn or cob corn, or Flying Dutchman for grains or Forages.

PROOF THAT OPTIMALLY GROWN HEIFERS ARE HEAVIER MILK PRODUCERS.

The most obvious reason for heifers to freshen on Purina's recommended 24 month/1,400 pound schedule is increased milk production in the first lactation. While both factors are important, records at the Northeast DHI Processing Center prove that weight has more influence than age. Note in the graph how production increases as body weight increases. At the 1,250 pound level, most of the improvement in milk potential has been realized. Heifers at the heaviest body weight actually show a decline in milking ability, presumably because of improper mammary development resulting from excessive growth rates.
